EPC Meeting Notes, 28 March 2019:

I. Guest: Kejuana Walton, Consumer Education and Advocacy Unit, Maryland Insurance Administration. (www.insurance.maryland.gov)

The MIA regulates insurance companies in Maryland; thus it can help with consumers' conflicts with insurance companies and in some cases overturn insurance company decisions. MIA deals with varied insurance including auto, life, home, Medicare, health and long-term care, flood, and more.

Ms Walton shared the varied services offered by the MIA: offers comparative information about home and auto insurance; classes for first time home buyers; comparison rates; information re homeowner's insurance; explanations of renters' insurance; disaster preparedness.

Recommendations: everyone make an inventory list of items + photos and save in a safe place/with a trusted person; identify whether they have replacement cost policy or depreciation; be very cautious re 'insurance chasers'; recognize that 'renter's insurance' covers only personal items.

To contact MIA by phone, see website for numbers of different departments, such as Auto and Homeowners insurance complaints, Life and Health insurance complaints, insurance fraud tip line, and more. This also includes a contact link. Note: website also has a link for language translation.

II. Information and discussion:

- City and County items (Ron Hardy)
 - Stop the Bleed, 2 sessions in April—13 and 17.
 - Celebrate Takoma event, May 18. Need volunteers to staff the EPC table
 - Emergency lock-down training for City employees forthcoming
- Application of FEMA Emergency Preparedness Report to TPK (Claudine Schweber & EPC): focus on working closely with community groups and their representatives
 - identify groups in your area with whom you have /will develop contact, and establish a contact person, e.g., high rise buildings, elderly, disabled, youth council, individual neighborhoods/blocks
 - share information re Emergency Preparedness with Council member, local listserv, ward meetings
 - identify key preparedness concerns of the group
 - eventually, develop a brief handout with basic emergency preparedness items, in several languages
 - need to increase visibility of EPC?
