Context with Key Issues

In preparation for redistricting following the 2020 Census, a request for proposals was issued for redistricting consulting services. Five proposals were received by the June 11 deadline. After review, staff recommended that the City contract with FLO Analytics for the project. The firm has demonstrated experience and a focus on outreach and engagement. The firm proposes partnering with Bloom Planning for the two public community meetings. The base cost for the five meetings and developing of five redistricting plans would be up to $37,810. Staff recommended inclusion of the optional Public District Scenario Modeler ($6,660) and a Redistricting Engagement Portal ($1,680).

Tentative Schedule:

Fiscal Considerations

The basic proposal from FLO Analytics would cost $37,810. The Public District Scenario Modeler is $6,660. The Redistricting Engagement Portal would cost $1,680. Staff recommends that the ordinance provide for a contract amount of up to $50,000 which should allow for an additional public meeting if desired.

Racial Equity Considerations

The 2020 Census will report population by race by Census block, which can be taken into consideration when reviewing redistricting options. Note that if Ward lines divide blocks (as they do now in order to have properties across the street from each other be in the same Ward, for example), population by race will need to be estimated for those blocks.
