Council Cuts Tax Rate for 2006

By Bob Guldin

Editor

The Takoma Park City Council voted June 6 to cut the residential property tax rate from 66 cents per $100 of assessed value to 63 cents. Councilmembers expressed satisfaction with the reduction, though some said they wished the rate cut could have been deeper.

The Council made the cuts by reducing the budget, including for police officer positions that are in reality likely to be unfilled for at least part of the 2006 fiscal year.

Montgomery County also voted to cut the tax rate this year, responding in part to rising assessments that have raised homeowners’ taxes. In most cases, property owners will still pay higher taxes, but the increases will be less than they might have been.

In order for there to be no change at all in property taxes, the City would have to reduce taxes to 59.7 cents – known as "the constant yield tax rate” – fully offsetting the rise in assessments.

Councilmember Bruce Williams (Ward 3) said, “This is halfway to the constant yield rate. That’s an accomplishment. I’m happy we’re there.”

Added Ward 1 Councilmember Joy Austin-Lane, “The Council is moving in the right direction. I hope next year we can take similar action.”

City Manager Barbara Matthews had proposed a tax rate cut of 1.5 cents, and the Council decided to double that number.

The only real controversy in the last stages of budget deliberations arose over whether the City should allocate $25,000 for a new “C-SAFE” program (a state-supported, community-based anti-crime program) to get started in the Takoma-Langley Crossroads area.

The modified building is three floors, with a three-story atrium near the front of the building to bring a sense of openness to all levels.

The new first floor will accommodate the Police Department, the middle level will be the Community Plaza Level, and the third floor will house City administrative staff. Space for City staff remains about the same in the new configuration.

The new Community Plaza Level will be the hub of activity, where after-school programs, meetings, weekend events, rentals and performances will take place.

Board Games Reach Across Generations At Victory Tower

By Ethan Goffman

As old as the Mesopotamian Royal Game of Ur, as young as a freshly unwrapped holiday box, board games reach across generations. And Takoma Park is capitalizing on this age-old and age-transcending pastime with a new intergenerational games club that meets at Victory Tower (formerly known as Victory Tower) every Tuesday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. According to club liaison and Victory Tower resident Mary Feldman, “Games help keep you young. Help keep the brain alive.” Feldman is in charge of getting the word out, getting snacks, making sure that events flow smoothly.

April 14 was the startup date, when Feldman first oversaw the transformation of the Victory Tower dining room. Families brought in younger children, while a group of high school students arrived by car. Tables were moved, boxes

Out With the Old, In With the New

This issue of the Takoma Park Newsletter will be the last one edited by Bob Guldin, who has been editor since November 2002. Guldin opined, “It’s been a fun ride, despite (or maybe because of) the ups and downs of the community. I want to thank our long-time copy editor Carol Smalls, designer Tulaa Ehnl-Smith and Communications Director Lorni Moffet for their professionalism and support and for making this project happen. Thanks also to the City staff, mayor and Council and members of the community who have helped by bringing their concerns and stories to the Newsletter.”

Guldin currently works as a writer and editor for the liberal advocacy group Public Citizen in D.C. With his newly abundant free time, he plans to do more freelance writing, and also pursue some training for his long-awaited career as an astronaut.

The new editor will be Virginia Myers Kelly, a long-time resident of the city. Kelly’s byline has already appeared in the newsletter, and she was on board on the Takoma Voice in its earliest years. Since then, she has worked in higher education publications (including those at American University) and currently makes a living freelancing for various clients, including Bethesda Magazine and the American Federation of Teachers.

In addition to her work, Kelly is an active parent of a middle-school and a high-school student, as well as chief dog walker and vegetable gardener at her house in Takoma Park. She looks forward to serving the community she’s enjoyed for the past 20 years.

Yovonda Brooks Joins City As Finance Director

The City has hired a new director of finance, Yovonda D. Brooks, effective May 23. Brooks previously served as city auditor for the City of Baltimore, a position she held for seven years.

As Baltimore’s city auditor, Brooks directed the audit of the city’s comprehensive annual financial report, and conducted financial, compliance and performance audits of city agencies. Before that, she worked as an audit manager for the Maryland Department of Legislative Services, Office of Legislative Audits.

Brooks also worked for several accounting firms in the Baltimore and Washington metropolitan areas. She holds an MBA and a B.S. in accounting, both from Morgan State University, and is a Certified Public Accountant.

Voter Registration

Don’t miss out on your opportunity to vote! In 1992, Takoma Park Resolution #1992-S2A, took effect, amending the City’s Charter to allow those City residents who are not citizens of the U.S. and who are at least 18 years old to vote, including one afternoon per month. The Takoma Park City Council May 23 proclaimed May 27 “Voter Registration Day.”

For information regarding Voter Registration Application forms for Takoma Park residents who are not U.S. citizens, please contact the City Clerk’s Office at 301-891-7267.

City Proclaims May 27 Rachel Carson Day

The Takoma Park City Council May 23 proclaimed May 27 “Rachel Carson Day,” honoring the pathbreaking environmental writer who lived for many years in Silver Spring.

May 27 is Carson’s birthday, and is celebrated by the Rachel Carson Council which carries on her activist legacy as “Pesticide-Free Day.” Carson was the author of several books, including the best-selling The Sea Around Us.

She is probably best known for her 1962 book, Silent Spring, which focused on the dangers of pesticides to humans and to the natural environment. Many consider that book the impetus for the modern environmental movement.

The City resolution asks residents to use that day “to focus their attention on the potentially serious hazards associated with chemical pesticides” and to refrain from using them.

For more information on Carson and her legacy, see http://members.aol.com/ecouncil/outpage.

Copy Editor Wanted

The Newsletter, a monthly publication, is looking for a copy editor. The copy editor works with the editor and designer to make sure that all elements of the publication are correct and conform to house style and that staff comments are correctly entered. The job normally takes around 10 hours per month, including one afternoon on-site per month. Copy-editing experience, knowledge of Takoma Park community and government are pluses. This is a modestly paid position. To apply, please send applications to tpnewseditor@takomagov.org or Takoma Park Newsletter Editor, 7500 Maple Ave., TPMD 20912.

Appreciation for Copy Editor Carol Smalls

You don’t hear much from us in this Newsletter, as we do the production work behind the scenes, but we want to note with grateful appreciation the hard work of a long-term Newsletter staffer. Carol Smalls has worked with the Newsletter as a copy editor for 13 years. She has helped shape and streamline what is printed by reading every word and checking the content for accuracy, timeliness and meaning. Her language skills, knowledge of community affairs and grammatical expertise have been invaluable resource and much appreciated.

For example, the above paragraph (did you catch any errors?) would never have gotten through Carol’s keen eyes and sharp mind. Thanks, Carol.

City Council’s Tax Rate Cut

City will use currently undesignated funds to get C-SAFE started.

The City’s total budget, including all specialized funds, for FY2006, is $19,991,522. Of that, $1,437,087 is for the Community Center fund, with other specialized funds for street improvements and stormwater management. The City’s General Fund budget is $16,433 million, up 1.05 percent over FY2005. Personnel costs for the City are up 2.5 percent, most of that under collective bargaining agreements with City unions.

For more information on the City’s website, visit http://www.cityoftakomapark.org, click on Background Information for Agenda Items, June 6, Agenda Item 6/7/8.

Discusing the City’s vacant police positions, which permitted $130,000 in budget savings, City Manager Matthews noted that the Takoma Park Police Department has been aggressively recruiting, “but it’s a tough market. Other municipalities in Montgomery County are having the same problems. There doesn’t seem to be the same interest in law enforcement that you had many years ago. Plus, there’s competition from the Department of Homeland Security, which pays quite well.” Matthews said that if the Police Department is able to make qualified hires, the money will be there to pay the new police officers.

How Rent Stabilization Works

By Jean Kerr
Housing Specialist

The City Council is currently reviewing the Rent Stabilization Law as part of the recodification of the entire Takoma Park Code. For information about when this topic is scheduled to be discussed, please consult the City’s Website: www.cityoftakomapark.org or call 301-891-7267.

Rent Stabilization was established in Takoma Park in 1980. It was adopted by City Council in order to set a limit on the amount of rent increase a rental property owner with two or more rental units could charge each year on an occupied or vacant apartment. Below are frequent questions that are asked about Rent Stabilization.

How are these limits set?
The rent increase limit (Rent Stabilization Allowance) is set each year by the City using a formula that is equal to 70 percent of the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for the Washington, D.C., area. For instance, the Rent Stabilization Allowance is 1.9 percent now, but will change on July 1st to 2.1 percent. The 2.1 percent will be in effect for one full year.

How often can a landlord increase the rent on an occupied apartment?
A landlord can increase the rent on or after 12 months from the date of the last rent increase on an apartment. This date is referred to as the “Anniversary Date.”

How much notice is required by a landlord to increase rents?
A landlord must give a two-month written notice which must be received by the tenant before the rent due date. For example, a tenant receiving a rent increase notice on May 28th and having a rent due date of the first of each month would start paying the increase on August 1.

What are the two ways that a landlord normally increase the rent on an occupied apartment?
A landlord can increase the rent each year up to the percentage of the Rent Stabilization Allowance.

What is the maximum allowable rent?
A Maximum Allowable Rent is the sum of the net operating income (NOI) in the base year (1990) is larger after adjusting for inflation than the net operating income in the petition year.

There are frequent questions that are asked about Rent Stabilization, please contact Jean Kerr at 301-891-7216.

Eviction Process Timeline

By Moses A. Wilds, Jr.
Landlord-Tenant Coordinator

A tenant asks: “What are the steps in the Eviction Process and how long does it take?”

The final step in a series of procedures initiated by a landlord to repossession his/her property (eviction) is the court-ordered removal of a tenant and a tenant’s personal property from a rental unit. The most frequent reason that a tenant is evicted is for failing to pay his/her rent although evictions may occur if there is a breach of the lease (e.g., illegal activity, tenant holding over after the lease term expires, etc.). A landlord DOES NOT have the right to evict a tenant, remove a tenant’s personal property or prevent a tenant from entering his/her rental unit without completing the proper judicial process. Doing so exposes a landlord to possible civil and criminal liabilities.

Are You Eligible for a 2005 Property Tax Credit?

Low-income homeowners and renters may be eligible for a credit back on property taxes paid in 2005. The State of Maryland’s Homeowners’ Property Tax Credit Program has been in existence since 1975 and in 2004, 11,000 residents of Maryland qualified for the program and received an average credit of $272. Maryland also has a Renters’ Tax Credit Program, although only 535 apartment occupiers received an average credit of $225.

Eligibility for both programs is based on the relationship between the household income and the amount of property taxes that you pay on an owner-occupied home or in a renter’s situation, the portion of the rent that is attributable to the assumed property tax. Seniors on fixed incomes may often qualify for these tax credit programs.

Both the state and Takoma Park have been encouraging residents to look into the eligibility requirements of the programs and apply if they qualify. In October 2004, the Council increased the City’s supplement to the State Homeowners’ Program from 15 percent to 30 percent of the state credit.

Representatives from the state indicate that they hope some changes will be made to the program for the 2006 tax period. For instance, the Homeowners’ Tax Credit Program only applies to the first $150,000 of a home’s assessed value, and this might be increased for next year. For further information or an application you can contact www.dat.state.md.us or call Linda Walker at 301-891-7222.
What You’ll Find in the New Community Center

No gymnasium is included in the Community Center. Space remains available on the site to build a gymnasium, if the City Council decides to pursue one, but significant financial and technical feasibility questions remain.

During construction of the second phase of the Community Plaza Level, the Recreation staff will be housed in trailers behind the building, and all of the other City offices will have moved to the new areas on the first and third levels.

Besides overseeing the Community Center, the Recreation Department will continue to operate the Takoma Park Recreation Center on New Hampshire Ave. That center has a heavily used gymnasium and weight room and serves a significant population of children and adults.

For more information, check periodically to the City’s Web page, www.cityoftakomapark.org or contact the Recreation Department at 301-891-7290.

Claudia Mills lived on Birch Avenue for many years. Her earlier fiction books reflect life in a town like Takoma Park—her more recent ones, Boulder, Colorado, where she lives now. Her picture book, Pooh's Parade, was inspired by our 4th of July parade and is dedicated to the children of Takoma Park. She has also written the delightful series of readers featuring Gus and Grandpa.

Katherine Paterson is our most famous Takoma Park children's author. Her husband John was the pastor at T.P. Presbyterian Church for a number of years. She has written many wonderful fiction books including two Newbery Award winners. The famous Bridge to Terabithia was inspired by the life and death of Lisa, her son David's friend at Bethesda Elementary School. The Great Gilly Hopkins takes place in "Thomson Park," a thinly-disguised T.P. She has also written non-fiction, quasifiction, and readers.

Gene Inyart Namowicz was a close friend of Katherine Paterson's, and she was also a very good friend to our library. Her first books were written under her maiden name, but we have put them all under the name Namowicz. She has four fiction titles on our shelves, though a friend may be sending us more.

Phyllis Naylor is also a friend of Claudia, Katherine and Gene. She may be as famous as Katherine Paterson on account of her Alice books. She lives in Bethesda, but her recent propels concerning Alice show living in Takoma Park. I don't know when Alice moved! Miriam Cohen has must have lived in Takoma Park many years ago. Ellen Arnold-Robbins remembers her checking out books here. I had no idea! She wrote those wonderful little school stories in the picture book section, illustrated by Lilian Hoban, books like Will I Have a Friend? More recently she has written stories about Mimmy and Sophie (one amongst the picture books and one in juvenile fiction.).

Enid Romanek is a Takoma Park illustrator who wrote and illustrated the picture book Teddy. She also illustrated an African folk tale, The First Morning.

Jill McMillus is an illustrator who lived in Takoma Park for a short while. I don't know where she lives now. Her picture book is called Madd About Plaid, but she has also illustrated a book of poems as well as the best Hannukah storybook I have ever read.

Beth Baker, who has lived in Takoma Park's long time, has written Sylvia Earle, Goddess of the Sea about the famous living legend and marine biologist.

Denis J. Hauply once lived in Takoma Park — does he still? If you don't read fiction at all (I?), you could tackle one of his books on the Constitutional Convention, on the history of the western world, or Vietnam, or Puerto Rico.

From the adult side, check out Bouwhit, a parody which was published in T.P. by Centa Press. Or one of the sci-fibooks by Roger MacBride Allen. There are other Takoma Park authors who have published books for kids that older kids might possibly enjoy — ask a Librarian! And tell us who we missed on this list, so we can fix our omissions and mistakes.

%Summer Quest 2005— "The Great Big Little Tiny Adventure!"

This summer's interactive reading adventure — conceived, written, and illustrated by Dave Burbank of the Library staff — is designed to be adaptable. We hope kids will explore books they might not otherwise pick up, but always with an emphasis on reading for pleasure of reading. Parents may also be intrigued by some of the new suggestions.

New challenges this time around include a juncture at which the reader is exhorted to pick a book with a Takoma Park connection. Here is a list of books compiled in a semi-chatty style. We hope there are no glaring omissions, but please bring any suggestions to our attention.

Library Programs in July

Summer Quest 2005 — "The Great Big Little Tiny Adventure!"

From time to time the Library receives requests to purchase books in the name of a friend or family member who has died. Often the donor has an idea for a subject that might have been dear to the heart of the person being remembered, but sometimes the suggestion is "Whatever you think the Library needs."

A recent memorial gift sent us out in a slightly different direction. The family of a recent person to be memorialized, a beloved patron of the library, was asked for suggestions, and they came up with a specific title, The Capresses Believe in God by Jose Maria Girondon (translated from the Spanish) is a 1,000-page epic story of the events leading up to the Spanish Civil War. Though it appears on a number of thoughtful lists of books which should be read by those who care to understand the events of the 20th century, it is not to be found in the Montgomery County or Prince George's County library catalogs, and only one copy in the D.C. public library system.
Purchased originally in Spain in 1953, it elucidates as perhaps no other novel the complexities of the issues before the Spanish Civil War. Though it appears on a number of thoughtful lists of books which should be read by those who care to understand the events of the 20th century, it is not to be found in the Montgomery County or Prince George's County library catalogs, and only one copy in the D.C. public library system.

I expect to see a long line of "holds" on your memory (far, far in the future).

"Two Teller Tales" And Workshop

Arianna Ross and Diane Macklin have each captivated Takoma Park Library audiences with their unique and fluid approaches to the ancient art of storytelling. This summer they are joining each other to bring a particularly dynamic program to our community. The program will be held Saturday afternoon, July 30, at 2 o'clock sharp.

Both storytellers use movement, music and audience participation to delight and inspire audiences of all ages. Arianna Ross brings to her art a background of traveling around the world and spending three years of study and performance with Bansi Kaul’s troupe, Rang Vidushak, in India.

Diane Macklin brings years of experience as an educator and as a storyteller working in the groin tradition. She began charming audiences here in Takoma Park in 2002.

The duo performance will be followed by a workshop for teachers, librarians and especially parents to discover new ways of using storytelling as a way to encourage reading and make learning fun. There will also be a concurrent workshop for children that connects to the performance.

Space for the workshop will be limited, so be sure to sign up early and keep your commitment. There will be no limit on the audience size for the storytelling segment which will be held 2 to 2:45 p.m.

Please call at 301-891-7262 to register for the workshop.

- Conduct a door-to-door recruitment drive for your citizen patrol.
- Demonstrate the ease of using an engraving tool to mark property; an important safeguard for personal property protection
- Arrange a mass registration of bikes — registration is free through the Police
- Install theft deterrent screws on license plates
- Request a demonstration from the canine unit
- Learn how speed-measuring devices operate and traffic stops are conducted
- A block party or barbeque, whether in a front yard or neighborhood park, is a great way to get to know your neighbors.
- The ideas are endless; let your beat officers know what your neighborhood is doing to celebrate National Night Out.
- Contact Sgt. Kurt Gilbert at 301-891-7124 or talk direct to your Sector Specialist: Victor Sector, Ofc. Tina Smith, ext. 5615 or X-ray Sector, Ofc. Joe Butler, ext 5629 at 301-891-7101. William Sector should speak with Sgt. Gilbert.

National Night Out is a locally celebrated national recognition of crime prevention and neighborhood action to create better and safer neighborhoods.

Plan for Home Safety During Vacation

Plan to keep your home safe while you are on vacation, whether a few days or longer. The Takoma Park Police offer a House Check for home owners who will be away for more than three days, leaving an unoccupied house. Officers will patrol daily to look for signs of any problems.

Remember to create an appearance of occupancy:

- Put lights and a radio on a automatic timer
- Stop-delivery of newspapers and mail or arrange for a pick-up and hold of these items
- Arrange for garbage and recycling cans to be put out and returned
- If away for an extended period, arrange for lawn mowing.

The House Check cannot be used if pet sitters or others will be in the home during your absence. The police should be given information about vehicles that will be parked at or near the home during the absence.

Long Weekend Or Vacation?

Takoma Park Police will check your house daily for signs of suspicious activity. Contact Communications at 301-270-1100 for details.

Checklist for National Night Out Against Crime

Time is short, but residents are encouraged to celebrate their neighborhood and crime prevention by planning a local event for National Night Out, Tuesday, Aug. 2. Safe neighborhood involvement has been a goal of this national program since it started more than 20 years ago.

Crime prevention is improved in a community where neighbors and safety. The Sector Specialists of the Community Oriented Policing Team stand ready to assist in planning an event that addresses the concerns of each neighborhood. Call them now for help in planning an event — small or more expansive.

- Identify your neighborhood’s major safety concern
- Choose an activity to address the concern
- Choose a location. If required, reserve space or petition for street closure for a block party
- Contact your Sector Specialist for ideas of safety materials to share
- Request visits by the Chief, the canine unit, or detectives
- Organize games or entertainment for children, if needed
- Identify contact persons to coordinate publicity and food, if desired

Want to Help Prevent Crime?

Do you live in a neighborhood off Flower or Maple Ave. and care about crime? If you can spare a little time to improve safety for your family and neighbors, you are invited to become a Neighborhood Safety Contact (NSC).

NSC contacts learn about crime prevention and safety, passing that information on to neighbors in their apartment complex or block. They share their friends’ concerns about safety with the police and work cooperatively to solve local problems.

The NSC network, a program of the Public Safety Citizens Advisory Committee and Takoma Park Police, has numerous members in other areas of the City, but few in the “William Sector.” This area primarily includes the neighborhoods along Maple Ave. north of Philadelphia and between Sligo Creek and Flower Ave. If you want to help on a single project (like a National Night Out event) or to discuss becoming a Neighbor- hood Safety Contact, call Sgt. Kurt Gilbert at 301-891-7124.

Games People Play

of games positioned, juice and cookies wheeled in, and residents and community members trickled in to launch the excitement. Soon small groups hover around tables, drawing cards and rolling dice. “When people play games something happens,” says Feldman. It is active and tactile, social, intellectual and psychological. “You have to think, use strategy,” says Feldman. Otherwise, “you can just sit at home and lie on your bed and all you do is read books and think sad thoughts. You deteriorate. You need to do something besides that.”

The club is the brain-child of Rockville resident John Goon, who has spent the past decade creating games clubs for youth in Long Branch, Beltsville, Greenbelt, Rockville, and Takoma Park. Goon’s first love is the Asian “Go,” a game of patience and in-depth strategy. And, like a Go-master, Goon has planted his clubs in schools and community centers, and patiently developed them.

The intergenerational club adds a twist to these clubs, bringing together young and old. This is especially important at a time when seniors are often warehoused in retirement centers. “That’s part of our objective, to break down barriers,” explains Bruce Baker of the Takoma Foundation, which provided the club with a start-up grant this past fall. “Extended families, a traditional part of the community, have been in decline,” says Baker, “and this actually fills that gap.”

The club, then, provides “outreach to a part of our community that doesn’t get a chance to participate,” says Baker. But it’s also had an advantage for youth, helping to develop leadership and interpersonal skills. “Overall, it’s a win-win situation, taking two needs and putting them together.”

Participant Colleen DiPaul sees the club as “a great way to get the generations playing games together and enjoying a common activity,” particularly in a time of troubled communities and young people. Known as the Road Runner, the semi-retired DiPaul commutes between Victory Tower and her home in Rector, Pa. She also sees boardgames as “an alternative to war and violence.”

Bang Nguyen is one high school student whose life has been affected, at least indirectly, by war, which sent his family from his native Vietnam to the United States. A member of the Long Branch games club for youth, Nguyen is also a volunteer for the intergenerational club. He sets up tables and helps teach games, and listens to seniors reminisce about moments in history from before he was born. “After many hours of working,” he explains, “you come here, you have a relaxed time, you meet new people. And for me personally, I come here because I want to improve my English, I want to learn how elders respect each other, and to have fun.”

While Nguyen teaches a game at one table, across the room young friends for letters to make words. “We like to see the young people,” says Virginia Harrington. She also enjoys learning new games. Of Connor Dowd, one of the young attendees, she explains, “he’s quick, he’s very helpful and makes it a lot of fun. He’s adorable as well.”

“That’s just what young people do, make old people feel good,” chimes in Ollie Williams. The club has other benefits, she says, including “meeting the other residents because we don’t see them very often.” And when they go on their walks around downtown Takoma, they now run into the young people they’ve met at the club.

Max Romanoff is one young person attending. He spent his first evening playing Blokus, which requires arranging different shapes to block out your opponent, and “a kind of role playing third game called Munchkin,” says Romanoff. “Both are pretty fun games, complicated, difficult.” Romanoff sees his own grandparents only “maybe once every two months.”

Kids like Romanoff are able to mix with seniors because of Goon’s patience and hard work, together with a tortuous combination of events. The idea for an intergenerational club began about two years ago, at the Takoma Park folk festival where Goon and area residents discussed bringing his clubs to seniors. The first attempt was the “Silver Foxes” which lasted less than a year. In fall of 2004, however, Victory Tower residents asked for Goon to start a club there. “We had a fair number of things going on in the tower,” explains Feldman. “We had Bingo and Seniorizee and occasional trips and stuff like that. Then they started this renovation and a lot of activities were no longer available.” With its budget stretched, the City could not accommodate them, but Goon stepped in and began the new club.

With funds from the Takoma Foundation, all the ingredients were strategically in place. Explains Goon: “When I got the money, I got the site, I got the seniors, I had the kids from the middle school, it’s all there; you just have to figure out how to get it together and work.”

Bringing people together requires social games with multiple players and time for chat. This contrasts with Goon’s early focus on Chess and Go. The intergenerational club plays more social games, such as Scrabble and Parcheesi, and a more recent group imported from Europe, which has, Goon explains, “a whole genre of games that could have general appeal and be generally accessible to the mass public.” These include Carcassonne in which players build cities in medieval France, and Ticket to Ride which involves competition to complete rail lines. Goon adds, “My interest is to introduce” club members “to new games to spark their interest, kind of intrigue them.” And early signs are that this approach is working; between the first and third meetings, attendance nearly doubled, from about 15 to 25 participants.

The club is on its way to being another success for Goon, who goes on organizing, introducing games to new groups, bridging gaps: “We want to be an all-inclusive club,” he says, “not a single-games club, not an exclusive club, but an all-inclusive club where anybody can come and find something enjoyable to do.”

It’s a Grand Old Fourth

On Monday July 4, Takoma Park will hold its 116th Independence Day celebration, one of the oldest such celebrations on the East Coast. The event will include a colorful two-hour parade starting at 10 a.m., led off by Mayor Kathy Porter and the Grand Marshal, Erwin Mack.

The free evening program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the Takoma Park Middle School Lee Jordan Field at 7611 Piney Branch Road. Featured will be the Takoma Park Concert Band with soloist David Goette and other entertainment. The national celebration, all the ingredients were strategically in place. Explains Goon: “When I got the money, I got the site, I got the seniors, I had the kids from the middle school, it’s all there; you just have to figure out how to get it together and work.”

City TV, Student Get Award For Humane Society PSA Video

City TV is pleased to announce that it is receiving an award in the 2005 hometown Video Festival. This award is for “Humane Society PSA” in the category of Educational Class Project. Takoma Park resident Julian Barnes wrote, produced and edited this public service announcement (PSA) with City TV staff as mentors. The award will be presented July 18 at the Takoma Park Community Media annual conference.

The PSA was part of Julian Barnes’ Sixth Grade Project at Friends Community School during the 2003-4 school year. Marcia Seitz, Julian’s teacher, said, “I think that Julian’s project shows what happens when a child can combine a passionate concern, talent, hard work and help from a knowledgeable mentor. When our class first saw his ad on video, the whole group became quiet. It was so heartfelt and so well done that we were deeply touched. I’m so glad his good work has been recognized.”

Alvaro Calabia, City TV’s Video Production Manager, was Julian’s mentor for the project. “What impressed me the most was that Julian wrote the entire script himself—and it was amazing, very well phrased. He also did all the video shooting and the voice-overs. I showed him how to edit, and the end result is a very polished, and moving announce-ment. He is a great kid to work with!”

Julian Barnes was at the time a sixth-grade student at Friends Community School in College Park. He has just fin-ished seventh grade at Takoma Park Middle School. Julian said, “Doing the PSA, I learned that 8 to 12 million ani-mals enter a shelter every year nation-wide and 5 to 9 million of them are euthanized. I also learned that it takes at least two hours to edit a 30-second video. Basically, I learned that it is not as easy as it looks to be a film editor. My favorite part of the process was learning how to edit footage. My least favorite part was leaving the shelter without taking one of the pets.”

The Humane Society PSA will be viewable on Takoma Park Snapshots during July, and may also be seen at other times during breaks between regular video programming. City TV staff will receive the award in July on behalf of Julian Barnes.

Community organizations are welcome to apply for a table/booth space at the 28th annual Takoma Park Folk Festival. Whether your community group wants to raise its profile or jump-start fundraising, this is the perfect way to increase visibility. Thousands of people from the Washington area attend the festival each year.

Last year over 100 community groups were represented ranging from youth sports, religious and social service organizations, to schools, environmental and animal-welfare groups. All are welcome to apply. The only requirement is that a group be a non-profit organization. Individual political candidates cannot have booths, but political parties are eligible.

The registration fee is $30, or $45 if a group is raising funds on site. The deadline for community tables applications is July 30. Please visit www.tpf.org to download the registration form.

This year, the Folk Festival will be held on Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Takoma Park Middle School. And, if you would like to participate in producing the festi-vale, please call 301-589-0202 or send an e-mail to info@tpf.org. Or, just come to our next meeting on Thursday July 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Heifer Center, 42 Ossego Ave., near the Takoma Park Dept. of Public Works.

Montgomery College/Takoma Park Gets New Campus Provost

The Takoma Park campus of Montgomery College got a new leader effective May 23 — Bradley Stewart, who was named Takoma Park provost and also vice president of the college. Stewart comes to the college from the University of Wisconsin at Waukesha, a two-year college in the Wisconsin state system. Starting in 1999, he served as campus executive officer and dean.

Stewart has more than 20 years of experience in higher education, first as a professor and then as an administrator. At Waukesha, he helped lead the campus in several major renovation and building projects. That experience might come in handy here, as Montgomery College is in the midst of a multi-year $90 million expansion program in Takoma Park and adjoining South Silver Spring.
County Should Pay City More for Public Works: TASDI

By Dan Beckley
TASDI Committee Member

Note: In April, the 21-member Residents’ Committee on Tax and Service Duplication Issues (TASDI) issued its report, finding that rebates paid to Takoma Park by Montgomery County in compensation for City services are at least $1.1 million and perhaps up to $4.8 million less a year than they should be. The TASDI report raises profound questions about whether Takoma Park should realign its service delivery structure or demand fairer county payments, or both. This article on public works services is the first in a series to inform residents about tax duplication issues confronting the City. The next article in this series will focus on park and recreation service duplication. To view the entire TASDI report, please visit: http://www.takomago.org/admin/tax/index.html.

Montgomery County is shortchanging the City of Takoma Park somewhere between $185,000 and $820,000 annually for public works services, the Residents’ Committee on Tax and Service Duplication Issues (TASDI) found in its recent report to the City Council.

The TASDI committee looked at services for which City residents pay property taxes to both the City and the county while receiving the services from only the City. Since 1973, various arrangements between the Montgomery County municipalities and Montgomery County have established a rebate framework through which Takoma Park and the other municipalities are reimbursed for this tax duplication.

The working group studied three areas where the City provides public works services that the county also provides: road maintenance, park maintenance, and trash and recyclable pickup. The TASDI public works subcommittee consisted of Takoma Park residents John Conger, Carolyn Fischer, Seth Grimes, Lance Rush, Misha Meek, Christopher Victoria, and Dan Beckley.

According to the report, in Fiscal Year 2005, the county paid Takoma Park a $399,903 rebate for the City’s maintenance of 34.6 miles of residential roads and two bridges. But it cost Takoma Park nearly twice as much — $787,000 — to maintain those same roads and two bridges. But it cost Takoma Park nearly twice as much — $787,000 — to maintain those same roads and two bridges.

The city is responsible for maintaining two bridges over Sligo Creek, including this one on Maple Ave. The county’s rebate for bridge maintenance: $32.

“Modern fundamental shortcoming in the county’s road rebate payment, which is based on a payment-per-mile formula, is the county’s dramatic undervaluation of Takoma Park’s costs for maintaining bridges,” said TASDI co-chair Bruce Moyer. “The city reimbursed the City just $32 to maintain two bridges above Sligo Creek on Maple and Flower Avenues, an amount that grossly inadequately to safely maintain those bridges.” Another defect in the rebate formula is the county’s failure to recognize Takoma Park’s administrative and overhead costs and capital outlays. For example, the 2005 rebate failed to reimburse the City for equipment purchases, vehicle maintenance, or the overhead cost for servicing bonds issued to undertake road and bridge construction projects.

The county also underpaid the City for park maintenance.

As for waste management, no county rebate exists for this service. The TASDI report estimated that total costs for collecting waste, yard trimmings, recyclables and leaves is about $250 per Takoma Park household compared with a County cost of $323 per household for comparable service. Not only is the City the service more cost-effective than the County’s, but there are tax benefits as well, the committee concluded.

While Montgomery County’s waste charge appears on each county property owner’s tax bill as a fee, the cost of the City’s program is bundled in the property tax. This distinction allows Takoma Park homeowners to write off the costs of the program on their income taxes. The cost of the program is reduced as a result of the homeowner’s ability to deduct this from his or her taxes.

“From the perspective of a Takoma Park homeowner, the City’s current cost structure is progressive since owners of more valuable homes pay more in property taxes than owners of less valuable homes,” said TASDI co-chair Dan Robinson.

Tenants and owners of large apartment buildings do not receive any waste services even though they contribute to the general property-tax base. This is an issue yet to be reconciled between the City and its residents.

Combat West Nile Virus, Get Rid of Standing Water

By Brett Linkletter
City Arborist

Most of us have heard about West Nile virus and its spread along the Eastern seaboard. West Nile is a mosquito-borne virus that can cause an encephalitis-like disease in humans who have been bitten by infected mosquitoes. The mosquitoes become infected by biting birds that carry the virus. Humans cannot get West Nile virus from another human who has the disease (the virus is not spread by person-to-person contact).

Of the 63 different species of mosquitoes in this area, approximately 3 of them have the potential to carry the disease. The predominant carrier in this region is the Asian tiger mosquito. Where most mosquitoes are reared to be active from dusk to dawn, the non-native tiger mosquito is just as active during the day as it is in the evening. It is identified by its striped legs and a “racing” stripe down its “back.” It usually flies fairly close to the ground and rarely bites above the knee. It has an extremely small flight range, not going more than 150 feet from its birthplace in a lifetime.

The best way to help prevent the possible spread of West Nile virus is to eliminate areas where mosquitoes breed. You can do this in your own yard by getting rid of all standing or slightly moving water on your property. Mosquitoes can breed in as little water as what would fill a bottle cap, and do so in as few as four to five days, so it is very important to check your property at least once a week during the mosquitoes’ most active periods (April to October) for standing water. Common areas of standing water to check: old tires, roof gutters, toys, bird baths, wheel barrows, tarps, children’s pools, plant pots, buckets, downspouts, corrugated pipes, and under decks.

If you have standing water in your yard that you cannot remove every week, you should consider purchasing products, which contain the larvicide, Bacillus thuringiensis israelensis (BTI). This biological insecticide kills the larvae in the water for up to 30 days.

To help reduce the risk of being bitten by mosquitoes outside you should consider wearing protective clothing such as loose-fitting long pants, loose-fitting long-sleeved shirts, and socks. Also, using insect repellents containing DEET might be appropriate for situations where extended exposure to mosquitoes is likely. Remember to use the repellents according to manufacturer’s directions on the label. If you would like to volunteer to do property inspections for mosquito breeding sites, or if you would like your property inspected by one of the county volunteers, call the Montgomery County Volunteer Center at (240) 777-2600 to get training.
