Skateboard Park Location Remains Up in the Air

You see them rolling down sidewalks, hopping up and down curbs, haunting loading docks and searching out stairs and rails, the gritty grind of their wheels on pavement announcing their presence in the streets and neighborhoods of Takoma Park. They are the local skateboarders, always in search of new tricks and a place to try them.

Now they have two possibilities, though each is proving to be as slippery as the waxed concrete ledges they ride all over town. One, right in Takoma Park, presents questions regarding operational costs, the other, in Silver Spring, is still casting about for a suitable location.

City Council discussed the matter at its January 17 work session.

Braithwaite selected to direct public works

You may have seen her out raking leaves with the pick-up crews, muscling the truck’s giant leaf vacuum into the piles collected in the street. Or perhaps you’ve heard her voice on the Public Works line, advising you about free mulch, or watched her testify before city council about energy efficiency in city buildings or trash truck purchases.

Now Daryl Braithwaite, who has been with the Department of Public Works for 16 years, has been selected as the department’s director. She took on the position January 9, after serving as acting director since Al Lott left last year to become city manager of Albany, Georgia. Braithwaite was chosen as most qualified for her new position after a nationwide search.

Braithwaite has been Deputy Public Works Director since February 2002, overseeing the day-to-day operations of the five divisions of the Public Works Department: administration, building maintenance, equipment maintenance, sanitation, and stormwater management. She also coordinated the City’s Capital Improvement Program, and has served as Public Works Manager and Solid Waste Manager as well. As Recycling Coordinator, she made a particularly indelible mark creating a pioneering recycling program for the city.

“I have thoroughly enjoyed my years with the City and feel honored to have had so many opportunities to work with residents, Council, and fellow staff to establish responsive, progressive, and environmentally proactive programs,” says Braithwaite. “I am looking forward to continuing that work as director.”

City Manager Barbara Matthews praises Braithwaite’s administrative, management and customer service skills, calling her an “asset to the community.”

Before coming to Takoma Park, Braithwaite was an environmental consultant and worked for Clean Water Action. She holds a degree in environmental science from Gannon University.

In our own back yard

The Takoma Park option, first discussed in 2001, seemed a sure thing four years ago. Skaters and their parents, along with community members and the City Council, crowded Council chambers to embrace the idea of a neighborhood skate park built on the two dilapidated tennis courts behind Piney Branch Elementary School, at the Takoma-Piney Branch Neighborhood Park. Those concerned with losing the tennis courts got newly surfaced courts at the Takoma Park Middle School. Then the grant meant to fund the project was discontinued and the project was put on hold.

Today, funding for a complete renovation of the Takoma-Piney park is included in the county’s Capital Improvement Program (CIP) budget and, if approved by the County Council in May, is slated for construction in 2008. Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which owns the park, requested an additional $75,000 from the County Planning Board to purchase skateboard equipment for the park.

“We’re ready to help out with the equipment and we’re asking [the city] to do the supervision,” says Ellen Masciocchi, who is guiding the project through Park and Planning.

Supervision would not be the only responsibility for the city, however, and City Council and staff are wrestling with the park’s annual operating costs, estimated by Debra Haiduven, the city’s Recreation Department director, to be $50,000 plus funds to pay management staff. Other unresolved issues include utilities, entrance fees, equipment leasing, storage, shed construction, policing and safety, and portable toilets.

Meanwhile, right next door

Add to the funding dilemma the news that Silver Spring is committed to building a skate park, but cannot find a site for it. If Takoma Park builds a park before a facility in Silver Spring goes up, some suspect the city facility would become more regional and may even prompt the county to abandon the Silver Spring project.

“If this is the only game in town, I think it’s going to be different,” says Haiduven, who wants to re-introduce the skatepark proposal to the community in light of the new circumstances.

Although Silver Spring’s commercial business district plan (CBD) specifically calls for a skate park, “There’s been this uncertainty about where and when we will get it,” says Glenn Kegger, team leader for Silver Spring at Park and Planning. Some neighbors have opposed the possible acquisition of a private lot at the corner of Fenton Street and East West Highway, known as Fenton Gateway, for a skatepark, so planners are searching for alternatives on land already publicly owned. So far, they have found none suitable, and with land in this area among the most expensive in the county, Fenton Gateway becomes a financial challenge as well. The Tony Hawk Foundation has voiced support for a park and could be a source of funding, but favors unsupervised, fee-free facilities which may not meet approval at the county level.

Dealing with Noisy Neighbors

Moses A. Wilds, Jr.
Landlord-Tenant Coordinator

A tenant writes that she is having trouble sleeping due to noise coming from her neighbor's bathroom. The tenant has informed her landlord of the continuing problem and wants to know what else she can do.

The tenant should advise her landlord in writing of the problem and request that the landlord contact the offending tenant. The tenant should also keep a written record of the noise incidents and corresponding complaints to the landlord.

If the problem continues, the tenant may wish to file a two-party noise complaint. The complaint must be signed by two city residents within 10 days of the alleged violation of the Noise Ordinance. The Noise Control Board was established by City Ordinance 2002-35 to (1) advise the City on its noise control efforts; (2) conduct hearings on citizen complaints of noise disturbances; and (3) to make findings of noise violations.

The standards work to determine if it is a noise disturbance as any steady-state or impulsive noise occurring on either a continuous or intermittent basis that is: (1) unpleasant, annoying, offensive, loud, or obnoxious; or (2) unusual for the time of day or location where it is produced or heard; or (3) detrimental to the health, comfort, or safety of any individual or to the reasonable enjoyment of property or the lawful conduct of business because of the loudness, duration, or character of the noise.

The burden of proof for establishing a violation of the Noise Control Ordinance is on the party who files the Noise Disturbance Complaint and the burden shall be met by a preponderance of evidence.

If the Noise Control Board finds in favor of the person bringing the complaint the board may order the violator to: (A) cease and desist from the conduct or activity which created the noise disturbance or to take other corrective action in order to abate or correct the violation of the Noise Ordinance; and/or (B) pay a fine to the City of up to $200 per violation. If there are multiple violators, or if the board has determined more than one noise disturbance violation, the fine may be imposed on each violator. Should the board determine the existence of a repeat violation (i.e., the violator is found to have created a noise disturbance within one year immediately preceding the current noise disturbance) the board may order the violator to pay a fine to the City of up to $400 for each violation.

Information on the noise complaint process, and copies of the form, may be obtained from the City Clerk at 301-891-7267 or e-mail Jessic@takomagov.org.

Voting Amendment Begins To Moves Forward

The City Council placed a non-binding advisory question on the November 2005 election ballot, asking voters if they favored a change to an instant runoff voting system for future city elections. Of those who voted on the question, 1,992 voted for the question and 390 voted against it.

Currently, the City Charter specifies that the candidate receiving the largest number of votes is elected. In an instant runoff system, voters rank candidates (1, 2, 3 and so on). If no candidate receives a majority of the first choices, the candidate with the fewest first choices is eliminated and those voters’ second choice votes are redistributed to the remaining candidates. This process continues until one candidate receives a majority of the first choices.

The City Council has decided to proceed with the charter amendment process to consider changes to the City Charter to provide for instant runoff voting in city elections. The Council will also consider changes that would provide some flexibility in scheduling the dates for the Nominating Caucus and the inauguration of the City Council.

The process of amending the City Charter involves notice of a public hearing, a public hearing, adoption of a two-reading charter amendment resolution, and a series of publications of a fair summary of the charter amendment.

The charter amendment process requires 50 days after the resolution is adopted, unless a valid petition for a referendum on the charter amendment is signed by 20 percent or more of the qualified voters of the City.

The Council will hold a public hearing on the proposed charter amendment on March 27, 2006, 7:30 p.m., in the Community Center Auditorium. Additional information will be provided in the next Takoma Park Newsletter. For information about the proposed amendments, contact the City Clerk at 301-891-7267 or e-mail Jessic@takomagov.org.

COLTA’s Corner and Decisions

By Jean Kerr, Housing Specialist

The Commission on Landlord Tenant Affairs (COLTA) recently approved two capital improvement petitions for rental properties in Takoma Park. COLTA also ruled on an illegal rent increase complaint.

Capital Improvement Petitions

3832 Roanoke Avenue (2005-87L)

On December 12, 2005, a capital improvement petition was approved for rent increases ranging from $27.46 to $92.35 on six units of the property. The improvements included replacing the plumbing lines, vinyl flooring, new re- frigerator, changing window blinds, painting bathroom, and refinishing wood floors.

All rent increases are in addition to the annual rent stabilization allowance in effect at the time the increases are taken.

COLTA DECISIONS

Moses A. Wilds, Jr., Landlord-Tenant Coordinator and Jean Kerr, Housing Specialist

November 2005

Acacia v. Carter

On November 29 in a case involving an alleged defective tenancy caused by the landlord’s failure to repair an exterior water leak that resulted in damage to the tenant’s rental unit, COLTA issued a decision that (1) the landlord’s Property Manager’s failure to make good faith efforts to repair the interior water damage constituted a breach of the Landlord’s duty under Section 6.16.050 (obligations of landlords) of the Takoma Park Landlord Tenant Law; (2) the tenant’s time waiting for scheduled repairs, loss of use of the bedroom closet, aesthetic unpleasantness and resulting stress of crumbling walls/ceilings, mildew and flashing paint decreased the value of the tenancy by 20 percent and (3) the landlord must pay the tenant $558, which is 20 percent of the tenant’s rent for the period from the complaint filing date until the complaint hearing date, as damages for creating the defective tenancy.

December 2005

Larvye President-Neal & Houston Ave. Tenant Assoc. v. Za Za Houston LLC

On December 19 in a combined case involving an alleged defective tenancy caused by the absence of elevator service, COLTA issued a decision that (1) the landlord had not made good faith efforts to repair the elevator and his conduct delayed the repair of the elevator noise disturbance in a defective tenancy, (2) the tenant who failed to prove that the defective tenancy caused any specific physical, medical expenses, or loss of wages or housing costs and who had a pre-existing medical problem was not entitled to an award of damages; (3) the value of each Tenant’s tenancy was reduced as a result of the defective tenancy by 60 percent for sixth to second floor tenants; (4) the landlord was ordered to pay each tenant whose apartment is located above the first floor a rent refund derived by multiplying daily rent by 63 days and then multiplying that figure by their floor location percentage.

Klockner v. Fred Korn Estate (2005-70T)

On December 28, 2005, COLTA issued a decision on a tenant complaint that the landlord charged an illegal rent of $850 when the tenant moved into the apartment. COLTA found that the maximum allowable rent for the tenant’s apartment was $618 at the beginning of the tenancy and $652 from August 22, 2005 to present. COLTA further found that based on the lease, testimonies and documentation, that the landlord charged rent in excess of the lawful limit. COLTA ordered that the tenant rent be reduced to $652 per month. COLTA further ordered that the landlord reimburse the tenant for the difference from September 2002 through October 2005 and any time thereafter.

Native Fish Return to Sligo Creek

By Ethan Golfin

“Welcome Home!” read the banner straddling Sligo Creek, hoisted by a gaggle of kids. The children then wet their hands and gingerly placed the squirming minnows into Sligo Creek. It was spring of 2004 and the fish were indeed returning to a lost home; they were native species that had disappeared from Sligo Creek decades ago.

The children are members of Friends of Sligo Creek, which supports county restocking efforts in Takoma Park and Silver Spring. The group also monitors water quality, works on stormwater re-duction, and removes invasive species, among many efforts that make the stream more habitable for aquatic creatures. “To be able to make real permanent change, it takes a commitment from the people in that watershed,” says Keith Van Ness, Senior Aquatic Ecologist of the county’s Department of Environmental Protection. “And that’s what’s happened now with the Friends of Sligo Creek.”

Montgomery County’s aquatic restoration may be unique. Restoring lost fish species simply has not been done. “Very few studies or restoration practices have anything to do with restocking,” explains Susan Flanders Cushman, a doctoral candidate at the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science. “There wasn’t a lot of knowledge about this,” agrees Van Ness. “It wasn’t like you could open a text book and see Native Fish Restoration 101.” So, in 1990, an interagency group led by Jim Cummins of the Interstate Commission for the Potomac River Basin started from scratch. “The question was where are you going to get these fish,” Van Ness explains. “To be ecologically sensitive, you want to get fish that are at least in the same watershed.”

Initially, the county chose a healthy nearby stream, the Northwest Branch, where fish genetics most closely match Sligo Creek’s original inhabitants. “We were looking for otherworldly electric backpacks and knee-length boots, biologists electro-shocked the fish, swooped in with nets, and transported them to Sligo Creek,” Van Ness explains. Released near the Sligo-Dennis Avenue Recreation Center, the species eventually made their way downstream to Takoma Park.

The dream of introducing fish would never have become reality without a program to treat a stream degraded by urban runoff. The problem is worst after rainstorms, when torrents rush madly into urban streams. In an earlier state of nature, most stormwater is absorbed into the ground, but as areas are covered by impervious surfaces, such as parking lots and roofs, water impact and velocity increase. Over time the process changes the shape and flow of a stream, harming fish habitat. Beginning in 1989 Montgomery County fought this urban denigration with retention ponds to capture sediment, stone walls to fight erosion, and reforestation. Adding root wads and woody debris provided friendly habi-tat for fish to hide and breed.

But the challenge of cleaning an urban stream remains immense. Stormwater management is key, increasingly through such community projects as rain gardens and rain barrels, says Mike Smith of the Water Quality Committee. The effort also requires a long-term com-

Reporting Illicit Discharges

Federal Regulation defines any non-storm water discharge into a stream (MS4) as illicit. NPDES Phase II communities such as Takoma Park’s are required to actively engage in Illicit Discharge Detection and Elimination process. Public Reporting is one important measure toward clean water act objectives.

Recently numerous residents as well as the Friends of Sligo Creek reported illicit discharge south of Maple Avenue at the twin 72-inch storm conduits outlet. The origin has been identified as a construction site in the District of Columbia. “Investigation and elimination” is underway by DC’s Environmental inspectors, the county and state.

Public awareness is an important component in the elimination of pollutants from our water resources. Here is how all can help:

When jogging or walking your dog along Sligo Creek, notice some unusual color or muddy water, large quantities of floating debris, foam or oil sheen. Report it to DPW, MDE or Montgomery County Department of Environmental Protection. The following indicate potential illicit discharge:

- Oil sheen
- Algae
- Dead vegetation or inhibited growth
- Dead animals
- Stains on channel bottom or sides
- Pipe corrosion
- Presence of dry weather flows

To report illegal spills, dumping, connections, or local emergencies related to the storm drain system or the sanitary sewer system, call one of the following numbers:

Department of Public Works: 301-891-7633 or 301-891-7620
MDE: 301-665-2850
MGC DEP 240-777-7746

Prohibited Discharges

- Dumping hazardous chemicals into storm drains
- Improper disposal of auto and household toxics
- Improper connections to storm drain system (floor drains, sanitary sewer lines, etc.)
- Sanitary wastewater
- Pet waste and lawn clippings
- Cooking grease
- Industrial process water
- Chlorinated pool water
- Commercial car wash wastewater
- Wash-down of loading areas
- Wastewater treatment plant effluent
- Dumping of liquid waste

- Water softener brine backwash
- Reclaimed or recycled water
- Effluent from septic tanks
- Mobile carpet cleaning
- Laundry waste waters
- Spills from roadway accidents

Permissible Discharges (admissible when managed)

- Landscape irrigation
- Diverted stream flows
- Rising groundwater
- Uncontaminated groundwater infiltration
- Uncontaminated pumped (Sump pumps) groundwater
- Foundation drains
- Air conditioning condensate
- Springs
- Water from crawl space pumps
- Lawn watering runoff
- Fences from riparian habitats
- Residual street wash water
- Discharges or flows from fire fighting activities

Recent Dump Threatens Creek

As this story was being edited, news came that the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC) discharged millions of gallons of chlorinated water into Sligo Creek near Kemp Mill. The discharge, which occurred from January 6 to 9, immediately killed 162 dusky salmon, 93 juvenile sunfish, 76 blacknose dace, and a variety of others within half a mile of the discharge, and effects were apparent down to Dennis Avenue, scene of earlier fish stockings.

WSSC failed to notify the Maryland DEP before the discharge, which continued for three days. Maryland law prohibits the discharge of chlorine or chlorine products at rates that exceed 0.1 milligrams per liter, according to the Friends of Sligo Creek web site. This level was almost certainly surpassed. At press time WSSC officials were not yet prepared to comment.

Despite the dump, the fish population is expected to recover. The Maryland DEP pumped the Dennis Avenue pond for maintenance, but otherwise plans no cleanup; Keith Van Ness explains that, as the water flows downstream, it becomes less chlorinated through dilution and dissipating into the atmosphere.
Native Fish

mitment. “To impact aquatic life . . . is a pretty tall order,” says Smith. “It’s a decades long process.”
To succeed, the restocked species must be able to breed through several generations. Many restored species, like the Longnose Dace and Tessellated Darter, have done so; others, like the American Eel, returned on their own.
Three native species that survived the pre-1990 period of urbanization make up the bulk of the population. Of these the Blacknose Dace is by far the most common, as the species survives pollution and temperature extremes. Now the hardy fish is one of some 13 species you may spot splashing to the surface, or gliding in the murky depths of Sligo Creek.
Fish, of course, are only one species in a complete aquatic ecosystem. Van Ness remembers mentioning spring frogs to a small boy helping put fish back into the creek. Had the child heard their nightly chorus? No, he had never heard a frog call. “I’m thinking, what a way for a child to grow up,” says Van Ness.
In 1992 the county began an amphibian restoration program, transplanting egg masses to vernal pools and wetlands, where they won’t be eaten by fish. Maintenance of these vernal pools is one way to support restoration.
Monitoring of these newly introduced frogs is done in pitch darkness entirely by hearing, explains Wilpers. Frog presence is reported on a four-point scale, from nothing, to a single frog, to overlapping noises, to a full-throated frog chorus. Although Frog Watch now reports a strong frog presence in Wheaton, the amphibians have not made their way down to Takoma Park’s faster moving waters. Still the chorus has returned to northern Sligo Creek, to elicit childish wonderment once more.
Along with amphibian life, the county and Friends of Sligo Creek are now working to bring in more sensitive fish species such as the Rosie-Sided Dace and the Silver Jawed Minnow. It is too soon to know if these will survive. Still the creek has come a long way, with fish darting through its waters, numerous insect species dancing above, salamanders slithering the banks, all nestled by a thickening tree canopy. Wilpers recently spotted a Great Blue Heron above the revitalized creek, which now provides plenty of food and habitat. “The entire world is a garden,” he exclaims, “and we’re the gardeners.”

Horticulture Club Grows Garden Network
The Takoma Horticulture Club has launched a new website, www.takomagarden.net. The product of many local gardening experts, the site offers local and up-to-date information about gardening, including recommended shrubs and perennials, local gardening services, and resources of all types—books, magazines, television, and blogs. And just for inspiration, the site includes photographs of the “Gardens of Greater Takoma.”

In addition to gardening, the site includes advice from local experts about environmental concerns affecting property owners, such as invasive plants, effects on the watershed, and the possibility of switching to organic techniques and growing native plants.

City employees have contributed information about city services benefiting the homeowner; the site covers local leaf pick-up, availability of free mulch, and free tree advice by the city arborist.

Susan Harris, president of the club and designer of the site, solicited numerous local gardening and environmental experts for help with the site, and hopes its new users will continue to contribute suggestions for further content, links, and garden photographs. Contact her at 301-270-5481 with your ideas. Information about the Takoma Horticulture Club itself is still available on its website, www.takomahort.org.

The Crime Report

Robberies
- On January 10 at 7:40 p.m. in the 800 blk of Anne Street, an armed robbery occurred. An adult male was walking alone when he noticed two subjects ahead of him. After he lost sight of them, he heard sounds behind him and turned to find the subjects pointing handguns at him. One of the subjects fired, and the other hit the victim with his gun when he did not immediately comply. Both searched his pockets and took his wallet. The victim was ordered to walk away and the subjects fled on foot. The victim refused medical treatment for a minor injury. On November 19 at 4:10 p.m. in the 400 blk of Boston Avenue, an armed robbery was attempted. An adult female was walking home when a dark blue minivan pulled up behind her. A subject exited the minivan and immediately approached her, displayed a gun and demanded her bag. The victim refused to hand over her property and screamed. The suspect then hit her with the gun and fled in the minivan. The victim received treatment for a minor injury.

The Firehouse Report

The Takoma Park Fire Department Fire Incident reports received in 2006 include 2,070 incidents and 2,598 rescue or ambulance-related incidents, for a grand total of 3,705. This is an increase of six incidents in comparison to totals of 2005 - 1,197 and 2,592 - for a grand total of 3,699.

During 2005, there were two serious fires in Takoma Park, resulting in major damage to two homes. Unattended cooking, smoking materials, electrical and heating appliances still lead in cause of home fires. We all need to do our part in this New Year to have no serious fires. We must have a fire escape plan for the entire family, and working smoke alarms on all levels of the home. Have a Fire Safe New Year, from all the men and women at Fire Station 2.

Free Visual Smoke Alarms Available

Busted: Underage Drinking Parties are Illegal

Takoma Park Police have responded to several incidents over the last few months in which juveniles have been drinking alcohol. Such gatherings can result in referrals to the juvenile court and have academic repercussions. In two incidents, the youths’ high school learned of the parties and reported the students in jeopardy of suspension.

When police encounter youth who have been drinking, they identify them through field investigation reports and their parents are called to pick them up. Any subsequent involvement with the police can result in citations and referral to the Juvenile Justice System.

Blair High School, which many of these youth attend, indicated the students would be subject to suspension. Reactions among parents have been mixed: Officers report that some were more concerned with police interviewing their children than with illegal alcohol consumption. Others indicated their children would face consequences at home. A number of residents have requested a more aggressive police department response to underage drinking.

Contraband alcohol procured by persons under the age of 21 is illegal, except for that involved in a religious observance. It should be noted that minors who are drinking are often also in possession of drugs, commonly marijuana, and tobacco; they can be arrested for possession of drugs, drug paraphernalia, or tobacco. Persons with knowledge of underage drinking parties can report incidents to 301-270-1100 and officers will be dispatched to any incident in progress.

Illegal Drinking: a Primer

- If you are under 21 it is illegal to drive or attempt to drive a motor vehicle with 0.02 percent or more blood alcohol (that’s less than one drink). If you do, you may be fined $500 and your license may be suspended for one year.

- In 2004, 15 people died in Montgomery County in automobile crashes involving drivers under age 21. Forty percent of those crashes involved alcohol.

- If you are under age 21 and are found in possession of alcohol, are in a car with alcohol or are where alcohol is served, you can receive a civil citation even if you were not holding the alcohol. If under 18, your parents will be notified and you may be fined up to $500 for a first offense and up to $1,000 for a second offense. Youth and parent can be required to attend driver safety or alcohol education classes ($40-90).

- If you are 18-20 years old, you will be required to appear in court ($20 court cost, $30 injury compensation board and $500-2,000 for a lawyer). You may be fined up to $500 for first offense or up to $1,000 for a second offense. You may be required to do community service hours ($150). You may be placed on probation ($25 per month) or mandatory urinalysis ($50 each).

- If you present a false I.D. or an I.D. that is not your own to purchase alcoholic beverages or to gain entry to a bar where alcohol is sold you may receive a civil citation and face the above penalties. You may receive a traffic summons for possession or displaying a false or altered driver’s license.

- If you receive a traffic summons, you must appear in court and you will need legal representation.

  - If you are found guilty, you may be jailed for up to two months and/or fined up to $500 and you may receive 12 points on your driver’s license. (12 points
  - If you possess intoxicating beverages on school grounds, your driving privilege will be suspended for 30 to 90 days. A violation of these laws could follow a youth for the rest of a life. Many job and college applications ask about arrests and those who have been arrested must answer truthfully. Some employers who require security clearances for employees can request a court order to open even juvenile records.

Repercussions for Adults

- An adult found guilty of obtaining alcohol for a minor or allowing a minor other than their own child to drink in their home can be fined $500.

- An adult convicted of contributing to the delinquency or a violation by a minor (a criminal charge) could be fined up to $2,500 and spend three years in jail. The minor need not be convicted or found delinquent for the adult to be held responsible.

- Parents are responsible for their child’s behavior. Parents can be required to pay up to $1,000 for damage done by their child.

- If someone is injured as a result of a child’s drinking, the child and his or her parents can be sued. Adults can also be sued for allowing minors to drink in their home, or for injury resulting from what they allowed to take place.

Police News

Minivans, SUVs, Hondas Remain Theft Targets

For most of 2005, vehicle theft reports decreased, an encouraging trend that began in 2003. But the final quarter of the year saw a significant increase in vehicle theft. A preliminary review of the vehicle theft reveals that the prey of choice remains the minivan and Honda models, with SUVs, trucks, and police-type vehicles increasingly seen as targets.

In the first nine months of 2005, the police took 117 vehicle theft reports, an 11 percent decrease from the same period in 2004 and four percent less than 2004. The final three months were a different story, with a total of 67 reports taken, twice the number in the final quarter of 2003. Most of these reports came from eastern Takoma Park, police beats V3, X7 and X8 (Wards 3 and 6).

The suburban minivan remains a preferred target, with at least 14 Dodge Caravans and Plymouth Voyagers stolen. Honda vehicles were equally popular with Civics and Accords accounting for 13 and 10 reports respectively.

A combination of various SUV makes and models accounts for 14 additional vehicle thefts. Targets ranged from the Honda CRV to the Mercedes ML43 and included six Jeep products. An additional eight trucks were also taken. Police-type vehicles (Grand Marquise and Crown Victoria) accounted for seven thefts.

The Maryland Vehicle Theft Prevention Council recommends that every vehicle should be equipped with at least one level of security in addition to the manufacturer’s locks. Models that are such popular targets should use secondary security every time they are parked.

The Council recommends a steering wheel lock as an easily used, inexpensive option. The lock is an effective deterrent to theft. Often referred to as a “Club,” after the most well-known brand, a steering wheel lock is a bar, hooked onto the steering wheel of a parked vehicle, making steering difficult if not impossible.

The Police Department offers a steering wheel lock, usable on most makes and models, for $10, a significant discount off the retail price. These locks may be purchased at the police station at any time. Persons seeking to buy one outside regular business hours should speak with the Dispatcher on duty and bring exact payment.

The COP Team continues to be available to assist residence groups of any size on the practices that can contribute to auto theft prevention. To schedule a program, contact him at 301-891-7124.

Most of the suspects arrested for vehicle theft were identified by officers on routine patrol or traffic enforcement. Residents can assist by reporting suspicious behaviors related to auto thefts. Examples of suspicious behavior related to auto thefts are:

- someone quickly parking a car and getting into another waiting vehicle
- poorly parked cars not regularly seen in the area
- a stranger changing tags on a car, or
- a vehicle with multiple riders slowly cruising an area.

If you see someone “drop” a vehicle and hurry to a waiting vehicle, it is useful to provide a description of the fleeing vehicle (make, model, color, distinctive elements like body damage and — ideally — a license plate number).

Parking, Sidewalks and Snow Storms

Vehicles parked on snow emergency routes may be ticketed and towed. These routes, posted with signs as snow emergency routes, include most state highways through the city. The city follows the county’s designation of snow emergencies.

Police officers exercise discretion on parking violations during snow emergencies. Generally during emergencies, the state rule prohibiting parking with “left wheels to curb” is not enforced. If possible, backing into a parking space can make exiting easier. If a vehicle is parked in a way that obstructs other traffic (too close to an intersection or in other unsafe ways) a ticket may be issued.

If you are tempted to abandon a stranded vehicle, a phone call to Police Communication (301-270-1100) is advised. Courtesy might be extended or an officer can advise whether you need to call a towing company.

Some city streets, by residents’ petition, become sledding streets; be aware of these in planning your route.

Deceased Found

On Tuesday, Jan. 3, a man was located deceased in the stairway to the rear of a commercial building in the 1300 block of University Boulevard. The 29-year-old Hyattsville man, a native of Guatemala, has been identified but release of his name is being withheld until notification of next of kin.

The medical examiner found the death was caused by alcohol intoxication complicated by hypothermia. There was no indication of foul play.

Speed, Lack of Attention Affect Winter Collisions

The image of a winter accident is of a dark and stormy night with the pavement wet with sleet and snow obscuring visibility. The reality of winter vehicle collisions in Takoma Park contrasts with that picture. Most collisions actually happen in clear weather during the day, with the causes being failure to give full time and attention to driving or moving too fast for conditions.

A review of accident reports from January through March 2005 reveals that more than 60 percent of Takoma Park’s 68 motor vehicle collisions took place during the daytime. Fully half were the result of failure to pay full attention to driving. Officers observe that most motorists pay more attention to their driving, compensating for the conditions.

Speed clearly contributes to the numbers, with three out of five collisions occurring on streets with the highest posted limits and speeds: New Hampshire Avenue, University Boulevard, Piney Branch Road and Hwy. 410. (1)

The highest legal speed in the City is 35 mph, allowed only on New Hampshire Avenue and University Boulevard. Sections of Hwy. 410 and Piney Branch Road allow a maximum of 30 mph. Most Takoma Park residential streets are posted for 25 mph, with lower speeds required when posted or if conditions warrant.

Winter Safe Driving Tips

- Turn on headlights when precipitation requires use of windshield wipers: this is a safety precaution and state law.
- Before starting a car, be certain the wipers are not frozen to the glass. Consider installing winter wiper blades.
- Before removing, replace all ice and snow from the vehicle and windows. Snow on the hood and front fenders makes it hard to judge distances; it can obscure lights; snow and ice flying off a car roof is a hazard for other motorists.
- Chains, snow tires or radials must be used on designated snow emergency routes when an emergency is declared. All-season tires are recommended for all four wheels on a front-wheel drive cars.
- Adjusting your speed to the conditions of the roadway and surrounding vehicles is the most vital factor in safe winter driving.
- Comply with posted speeds; 25 mph is the maximum on most City streets.
- Don’t use a wireless phone while driving.
- Consider conditions: drop your speed on wet or leafy streets and at night.

Skateboard Park

Takoma Park could become “an interim regional facility,” says Kreger, though he does not see it as a substitute for what was meant to draw users from a broader area.

If we build, who will pay?

Here the Takoma Park skatepark funding takes a new twist. If a city park attracts people from all over the county, should the county pay for it? Takoma Park already pays for its own recreation programs, and county tax rebates for recreation are meager at best (see Sept. 2005 Takoma Park Newsletter). “We ought to have the neighborhoods that’s willing to take [the park] on,” suggests councilmember Marc Elrich. “We can take it, they [the county] can fund it.”

But if the county is willing to pay $75,000 for skate park equipment, “why look a gift horse in the mouth?” wonders councilmember Joy Austin Lane. The project could be a pilot; if it didn’t work out it would be $75,000 plus the city’s $50,000 well spent, for the year.

Because the skate park came up past 11 p.m. during the council’s work session, Council decided to postpone further discussion; it did approve Haiduven’s continued pursuit of the park in Takoma-Piney Branch, but stopped short of agreeing to budget $50,000 in operational costs. The issue will resurface during budget meetings, and Haiduven warns that costs could go as high as $90,000 when necessary management personnel are included. For now, it seems Council will wait to see if Silver Spring is going to build a park, and queries will be made into county funding for operational costs of a Takoma Park facility.

In the mean time, watch out for skaters in search of ramps, rails and stairs.

Rent Stabilization: Opportunity to Comment

The Takoma Park City Council will continue its review of rent stabilization beginning this month. We encourage you to become a part of this discussion. You may submit your comments in writing to the City Clerk at 7500 Maple Avenue, Takoma Park MD 20912 or by email to Clerk@takomagov.org. You are also welcome to attend the Council meetings. The following aspects of rent stabilization will be considered during the months of January and February 2006: annual rent increase allowance, Jan. 23; rent increases upon vacancy and exemptions from rent stabilization, Feb. 6; and the capital improvement rent increase petition, Feb. 21.

For more information, contact Linda Walker, 301-891-7222.

Clariation

Public Works would like to clarify that, in case of snow, all sidewalks not only in front of but adjacent to a property are the responsibility of the property owner and must be cleared of snow and ice.

Help Your Neighbors in Need

By Linda Walker, Manager - Office on Landlord-Tenant Affairs

With so much suffering and need in other parts of the country and the world, we often don’t realize that there are those right here in our own community facing financial crises each and every day of their lives. For this reason, the Takoma Park Emergency Assistance Fund was created by the City Council in 2001. This fund helps residents of Takoma Park who are experiencing crises such as health issues, pending evictions, or notice of a utility cut off, often due to loss of employment or financial circumstances beyond their control.

Donations made to the Takoma Park Emergency Assistance Fund are tax-deductible and are sent by the City to a designated non-profit organization which distributes the money based on the availability of funds and the presented need. Since 2003, the City has maintained an agreement with Adventist Community Services of Greater Washington, Inc. to administrate this program. Receipts often are referrals from the City’s Landlord-Tenant Office, but many residents go directly to this well-known community service center themselves.

Ron Wylie, Executive Director of Adventist Community Services, states he would welcome seeing this fund grow, as the need is great. Although more than $5,000 was distributed to Takoma Park residents last year, serious cuts in FEMA money will now reduce federal and county funding they receive this year.

You can help those in need by contributing to the Takoma Park Emergency Assistance Fund. Please use the form provided below to send in your contribution. A letter acknowledging your donation will be sent to you.

We thank you for supporting this program and the service it provides to the community.

Donations should be made to "City of Takoma Park Emergency Assistance Fund, Finance Office, 7500 Maple Avenue, Takoma Park, Maryland, 20912. For questions, call 301-891-7222.

I wish to donate $__________ to the Emergency Assistance Fund.

City Forever
for Ida Summy

"I've accumulated filing cabinets
On road materials... and the serious study of Music before I get too old. One saving grace in the fight to save my own home..."

Etta Mae Davis

"O I won’t live way out in the country," B wrote,
"We’ll never have any neighbors and nobody’ll be able to find us."
High up, near heaven,
Each Citizen of the Moment whose vision
To such of his friends as desired country
Houses I have heard him say and as he saw a growth
Of stunted pine and scrub growth
Tied with no end of briar and poison vines,
One settler: seventy houses, five stores,
And a meeting hall,

Ida Summy at the Hillman House
Over a game of cards suggesting
"k", not to mistake it with Tacoma,
Washington, he, a great stickler for pure water, cure
For all the ill flesh receives,
As of ideas,
I have heard him say it was while he was in Search of a spring
Which he found,
An affordable elegance, stressing the railroad.

We meet
Here at the arrival of
And introduced to, join
Into the company
Or presence, of experience,
To undergo, deal with, or oppose,
Into conformity
With the wishes,
And assemble to occur together
In one person
Maybe, here,

The ribbon’s
Real chance of it
Being cut, the Center
Glad you’re in it,
Part of an object
surrounded by the rest,
For he who makes two blades of grass grow, the ways
Named for trees set under the forest trees with singing birds,

Gathering places, figures
Named again and brought from earlier,
Frame church in a field at Piney Branch,
Pamela Favorite, and Favorite’s Store,
The streetcar at Wildwood, Our Lady of Sorrows,
White elephants and firetraps,
Joseph Colea’s Progress Market —

Look, it’s Margaret,
Leona, Joseph and Frank Colea, and unidentified man.
It’s Hallie
Mooers with masks, Hallie Mooers
With the pet crow,
Morrison in his Back Acres azalea garden in Pass Christian
Same as today, suited to azalea culture and because
Dr. E. Clyde Smith (with sword) sang the part of KoKo, Mr.
Huck made the beautiful paper ornaments,
"Mr. Lee" sang to the young,
The William Orton family in a touring car, paused, it feels,
At the whistle of Annie Cotton.

Air of the mountains,
Health of the pines,
You will find twelve rooms
From the daily cares
In the loud room
And the quiet.
A sprung wooden floor and mirrors,
Chairs, good light,
A large screen,
Sinks and a kiln.

This poem was written by Takoma Park Poet Laureate Don Berger, on the occasion of the grand opening of the Community Center, December 11.
