New businesses reflect international flavor at Crossroads

By Virginia Myers

Three new businesses—a shipping center, a beauty shop and a restaurant—recently opened at Takoma Langley Crossroads, and their new owners reflect the continuing international flavor of the City's largest commercial district.

The K&C Shipping Center (1356 Holton Lane, 240-264-7307), opened in February, is owned by Ghanian Kwame Amihere and his wife, Christina Coffie. It is the only Fed-Ex shipping site in the Takoma/Langley shopping area (excluding the drop box at Bank of America), and also offers UPS shipping and graphic design (for fliers, business cards, invitations and the like). Amihere, who was laid off his job as a graphic designer for Northrop, is also a photographer and plans to include cell phones and portrait photography in the business as well.

Star Beauty Salon (1339 University Blvd., 301-408-444) opened in January, and is the newest enterprise for Vijay Sharma, an entrepreneur who also owns the Loch Lomond bakery in Adelphi Plaza, on University Boulevard in Hyattsville. Sharma, a baker, has his hands full at Loch Lomond but wanted to take advantage of the vacant space near friends who run the Tiffin/India Sari Palace nearby. The salon is managed by Flo Stewart, who has 40 years of experience in beauty salons in the area. It specializes in hair coloring, and is also offering eyebrow threading, relaxers and other services, for an international clientele. New customers get a special rate on cuts, while the shop is new: $13 for women, $10 for men and $8 for children.

The Crossroads is also getting another eatery: #1 China Restaurant (7643 New Hampshire Ave.) is under construction and expected to open in April. The family-owned business is the first restaurant for Rong Zhang. After extensive renovation of the facility, formerly Pollo Wow!, it will be

Crime decreases in Takoma Park

By Virginia Myers

Crime is down for the fifth year in a row, according to the crime statistics report for 2011 from the Takoma Park Police Department.

Topping the decrease was robberies, down 33.3 percent since last year (going from 48 to 32 incidents); burglary was down 27.3 percent (from 150 to 109). Overall, "Part One" crime, which includes serious crimes like assault, robbery, homicide, rape, burglary, auto theft and larceny, was down 13.5 percent, from 652 incidents in 2010 to 565 in 2011.

Auto theft did rise, however, by 22.2 percent, going from 63 incidents to 77. Vehicles most frequently stolen are, in order of frequency, Dodge Caravan, Honda Accord, Jeep Cherokee, Chrysler Town and Country and Toyota Camry.

Homicide was up, with one homicide reported; rape was up, from one to three incidents. The homicide involved a dramatic standoff with a bank robber who was shot at the Capital One Bank on New Hampshire Avenue at the Takoma Langley Crossroads. The rapes were domestic/family oriented offenses against minors known to or related to the offenders, and occurred in January and August.

Other crimes include larceny, down 12.9 percent from 364 to 317 incidents; and assaults, which stayed the same, at 26.

Police Chief Ronald Ricucci credits his plainclothes force for helping to keep crime in check, and told residents gathered at an informational meeting Jan. 24 that by flooding areas that are trending toward robberies and burglaries, his officers can catch the perpetrators and stop the trend. In addition, having a full force — 42 officers — allows him to cover as much territory, as much of the time, as possible. And, he says, residents are more likely to report crimes now, a practice he encourages nearly every time he meets with the public.

The report also compares crime activity in the different wards of the City. Ward 6 experienced the highest crime; it includes the commercial areas near Takoma Langley Crossroads, where some gang activity has influenced criminal incidents. Twenty nine percent of the City's crime occurs in that ward. Ward 3, which borders the District of Columbia (where criminals cross jurisdictional lines to avoid capture) has the second highest crime rate; it claims 21 percent of

PRESERVING THE ART OF MUSICAL CONVERSATION

By Joy Jones

CAROLE KING AND STRAVINSKY? JAMES BROWN ...AND A CELLO? HOW ABOUT SCOTT JOPLIN... AND BRAHMS? WHATEVER YOUR TASTES, IF YOU LIKE A LITTLE ADVENTURE WITH YOUR MUSIC, THEN WASHINGTON MUSICA VIVA HAS SOMETHING FOR YOU.

Three years ago, Takoma Park became the new home of Washington Musica Viva. Started in 1998 by Carl Banner (a piano prodigy who returned to music full-time after a career in biochemistry) and wife Marilyn (a well-known visual artist), Washington Musica Viva produces public performances of classical, jazz-based, and contemporary chamber music, and its performances attract musicians and music enthusiasts alike who welcome more conversational chamber music.

As Carl Banner explains it, chamber music (like jazz) and orchestral music are fundamentally different. "Orchestras are led from the top, by the conductor, and the musicians submerge any individuality of timing, expression or musical decision-making. In chamber music, each musician has a say, to one degree or another, in all aspects of musical performance." Chamber music is, says Banner, "an intimate medium..., not about being a soloist, but about sharing the music with other musicians who "love and listen, love and listen, and ultimately, lose awareness of oneself in the mysterious and glorious sound of the ensemble." Banner says he especially wants to blur boundaries between the jazz and European classical music traditions by "bringing a jazz sensibility to classical music."

Now in its 14th season, Washington Musica Viva actually began as a monthly, multi-disciplinary performance series produced in the Howard Avenue, Kensington (Md.) studio of visual artist Marilyn Banner. According to Carl Banner, audiences for these popular performances often exceeded the capacity of the studio, and as a result Washington Musica Viva started performing in larger metro Washington venues, including the Silver Spring Civic Center.

To date, Washington Musica Viva has produced more than 180 programs, with recent performances at the Kennedy Center's Millennium Stage, the Czech Center in New York, the Embassy of the Czech Republic, the Embassy of Austria, Brooklyn Conservatory, Busboys and Poets D.C., and the Washington Conservatory. Directed by pianist Banner, the ensemble is composed of professional musicians from the Washington-Baltimore area and New York City, and includes violin, cello, viola and saxophone players, among others.

Several times funded by the Arts and Humanities Council of Montgomery County, Washington Musica Viva has a current AHCMC grant to produce a 14-concert series for performance at Takoma Park Community Center. Focusing on local composers, African-American composers, politically oppressed composers and unfamiliar masterpieces of all kinds, the 2012 series is ambitious; an excerpt from the calendar of recent and upcoming events reads like a global tour:

FRIDAY, FEB. 17: Turkish/Jewish: A. Adnan Saygun's Suite for Violin and Piano Op. 33, Mordechai Seter's Partita for Violin and Piano, and Darius Milhaud's Poemes Juifs.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13: Music of Schumann, Chopin, Brahms, Bach, Darius Milhaud, Scott Joplin and Charley Gerard.

FRIDAY, MARCH 16: Hot Classics - Music of Mozart, Brahms, and Chevalier de Saint-George, an Afro-French composer.

A recent (Jan. 20) Washington Musica Viva concert featured "The Mighty Saxophone of Charley Gerard," the New-York based alto saxophonist and ethno-musicologist who has collaborated with Banner for a number of years. Highlights of that concert included an original composition, Hava/Habibi (the Israeli Hava Nagila and the Arab Habibi) and Gerard's own Will You Love My Earth Kiss Tomorrow, a medley of Carole King songs with borrowings from Stravinsky.

Interviewed after the January concert, Gerard said it "doesn't make sense" to have artificial boundaries between classical music and jazz. In his experience, he says, a great many jazz musicians are classically-trained, and therefore fluent in both the orchestral and jazz chamber music traditions. The difficulty, says Gerard, is mainly in the other direction; most classically-trained musicians are neither trained nor conversant in the jazz tradition.

Takoma Park residents seem to appreciate Washington Musica Viva's presence and now residency in Takoma Park (the studio itself is on Flower Avenue). Nancy Currier, who attended the Gerard concert, says, "Performing in Takoma Park now, Musica Viva is hard to resist. I like the strong classical content of their programs. But I do wish that [there was] a grand piano available to them at the Community Center."

Another resident, Carolyn Bassing, has long followed Washington Musica

Viva. "I've attended their concerts for many years," she says. "Their concerts [including jazz versions of Dvorak's Slavonic Dances at the Czech Embassy and their Busboys and Poets production of Langston Hughes' poem Weary Blues] have been superb... it's great having such wonderful music and such a resource here in Takoma Park."

Indeed, Banner says that response from community residents has been important to their performances. Feedback from Victory Towers and Franklin House audiences to amplify the music has helped increase community attendance and expand audience development.

Two upcoming concerts are of particular interest, as they feature a local composer. On Friday, April 20, Takoma Park resident Ulf Grahn will present his original "Nocturne for Piano Trio and Tape" (1987), plus music of Schumann and Beethoven. The "Nocturne" is inspired by traditional Swedish mountain herding calls, and according to Grahn, the piece "bridges old and new musical traditions."

Grahn is well-known locally as the founder in 1973 of the Washington Contemporary Music Forum, and encourages Musica Viva audiences to "bring an open mind to music, just as you would bring an open mind to any other art form." The other concert of special interest: on Friday, May 11, Charley Gerard will return to premier his own work, Takoma Park is the Place to Be.

Carl Banner says he couldn't ask for a better home than Takoma Park for Washington Musica Viva, and wants to spread the word that the nonprofit is seeking Takoma Park residents to become more involved, especially as it seeks to expand its Board of Directors. "We are doing something different here in Takoma Park," he says, "and we invite people who are excited by that to get involved with us."

HOUSING

HOUSING MAILBOX

Withholding rent

By Moses A. Wilds, Jr.
Landlord-Tenant Coordinator

My landlord is MIA when it comes to responding to my requests for repairs. Is it true there's a "rent escrow" process that lets me withhold my rent until he fixes the toilet?

Well, yes and no. And, probably no, if it's just a leaky toilet.

Rent escrow is a legal remedy provided through the Montgomery County District Court which permits a tenant to pay rent to the court when a landlord fails to repair a condition which may present a threat to life, health or safety. It may not be used as a remedy to withhold rent because of a landlord's failure to correct minor defects (such as leaking faucets, broken appliances, etc.) or housing code violations that are not considered to be serious and substantial defects and conditions.

Section 8-211(e) of the Maryland Code notes that serious and substantial defects include but are not limited to the following:

- lack of heat, light, electricity, or hot/cold running water, except when the tenant is responsible for the payment of these utilities;
- lack of adequate sewage disposal facilities;
- infestation of rodents in two or more rental units;
- the existence of lead paint pigments on surfaces within the rental unit;
- the existence of any structural defect which presents a serious and substantial threat to the physical safety of the occupants; or
- the existence of any condition that presents a fire hazard or a serious and substantial threat to the life, health or safety of the rental unit occupants.

To use the rent escrow process, you must first give the landlord written notice of the condition or defect(s) by certified mail, show that he or she has actual notice of the problem(s), or show that he or she has received a written violation notice from a government agency about the problem(s). Once the landlord receives notice, he or she must be given a "reasonable amount of time" to take corrective action.

What's "reasonable"? The court decides, based on the severity of the defect/condition and the danger it presents.

If the landlord fails or refuses to make the repairs or correct the condition within that reasonable time period, you may use rent escrow until repairs are made.

Since the most common types of tenant complaints to the landlord-tenant office do not meet the serious and substantial defects described above, rent escrow is not the most appropriate remedy. In most instances you should provide your landlord with written notification of the problem that is dated and signed and allow the landlord seven days (except for emergency situations such as not having heat) to respond. If the landlord fails to respond after the seven days you should then call 240-777-0311 to schedule an appointment with a county code office inspector. The county inspector will document the violation and give the landlord a date to correct it.

Tenants or landlords with questions regarding the City's Landlord-Tenant Law can contact me at 301-891-7215 or at mosesw@takomagov.org.

COLTA'S CORNER

Landlord fees withdrawn; entry violation upheld

By Moses A. Wilds, Jr.
Landlord-Tenant Coordinator

Hampshire Towers Tenant Association v. Tenacity Group/7401 New Hampshire Ave. LLC and Dreyfuss Management, LLC (11-9T)

On Feb. 13, COLTA issued its ruling in a case involving illegal fees for repairs made by the landlord, and improper entry into tenants' apartments without proper notice or report of entry.

Because the landlord withdrew the fees for repairs prior to the hearing, COLTA ruled that the issue was "not ripe" for a decision. The commission did note that subsequent attempts by the landlord to collect the fees and the filing of new complaints by the tenants opposing the fees would result in the consideration of evidence presented at the hearing in any future proceeding.

COLTA also ruled that the landlord did not provide the requisite 48 hours advance written notice and did not leave a report of entry. However no punitive damages were awarded because the violations were unintentional and did not have a negative impact upon the tenant, who was aware of the planned entry before it occurred but did not object to it. The landlord was placed on notice regarding the entry requirements, and was told that the commission may take judicial notice of the record in this proceeding, if it receives future illegal entry complaints against the landlord.

Gordon v. Simms (11-10T)

On Jan. 26, in a security deposit refund case, COLTA ruled in accordance with Section 6.24.080.E. of the City code, that the case was dismissed because the tenant failed to appear at the hearing to prosecute her case.

Funding good works within the City

With a City budget that, last year, topped $24 million, $130,000 may seem like a drop in the bucket. But to the organizations that receive that money, it can make all the difference.

The Takoma Park City Council reviewed nine requests for “large community grants” last month, and gave staff a general sense of which they’d like to see included in the FY2013 budget proposal. This will give them a jump start on the budget process; the Council begins to review the budget beginning April 5. Final budget decisions are rendered in May.

City councilmembers generally favored funding for the Old Town Business Association (OTBA), Adventist Community Services, the Crossroads Community Food Network, the Takoma Park Folk Festival, and the Independence Day Committee. There was less support for four others: the Dance Exchange, Music from Maple View, the Takoma Park Women’s Business Network and a rain garden at Washington Adventist University’s Halcyon Hall. Most reasoned that the services listed first benefit the most members of the community, in the most “needful” areas; the others were either not as universally beneficial, not as organized in their plans for fund use, or had other resources they might use. Amounts granted are likely to vary from requests, depending on perceived need and relevance.

The requests were from:

- Adventist Community Services of Greater Washington, for swimming and water safety lessons, at $8,060
- Crossroads Community Food Network, Inc. (formerly Crossroads Farmers Market, Inc.) to expand the healthy eating initiative, at $17,368.50
- Dance Exchange, the studio for performance and instruction, for the HOME performance/learning series, at $20,000
- Music from Maple View, a classical chamber music festival and series (which councilmembers felt was duplicative of existing classical concerts at the Community Center), for $2,500-

$10,000

- Old Takoma Business Association/Main Street Takoma, for ongoing support of the commercial district, at $30,000
- Takoma Park Folk Festival, Inc., for festival support, at $7,000
- Takoma Park Independence Day Committee, Inc., for Independence Day fireworks, at $13,500
- Takoma Park Women’s Business Network, a new organization designed to support and create networking opportunities for local women entrepreneurs, at $20,720 (The group has submitted an application for a Small Community Grant for workshops through June 2012)
- Washington Adventist University’s Halcyon Hall, for a courtyard/raingarden, at $4,000

For more information on the requests, see the City Council page and agendas, at www.takomaparkmd.gov.

Volunteers are needed to mark storm drains, reminding people not to dump pollutants and to protect water quality. Teams will be formed to mark City storm drains in September. To volunteer, please call Public Works at 301-891-7633.

Fire, by the numbers

As of Jan. 31, the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department and the personnel of the Montgomery County Fire and Rescue Service assigned to the station have responded to 40 fire-related incidents in 2012. The department addressed or assisted with 232 rescue or ambulance-related incidents, for a total of 272 this year. Totals for 2011 were 85 and 256, representing a decrease of 69 incidents.

Fire results in death on Maple Avenue

A 56-year-old woman died in an apartment fire Feb. 20.

Charlotte Wilson died of severe burns from a 2 a.m. fire in her apartment at the Park Ritchie, at 7600 Maple Ave. Her 18-year-old granddaughter, wakened by a smoke alarm, had rushed to help. Montgomery County Fire and Rescue responded, and Wilson was treated at the scene. She was taken to Washington Hospital Center, but died of her wounds.

THE FIREHOUSE REPORT

By Jim Jarboe

Investigators believe the fire started when the cigarette Wilson was smoking in bed dropped into a pile of clothes on the floor of the apartment.

Fire hits Barron Street

On Feb. 16 at 6:52 a.m., firefighters from Takoma Park, Silver Spring and Chillum-Adelphi responded to an apartment fire at 8708 Barron Street. Upon arrival of the first unit, they found fire coming from the top apartment window. All occupants were out of the apartment. No smoke alarms were found in the apartment; firefighters were alerted by the occupant of the adjacent apartment. Approximately 50 fire fighters were on the scene, with the fire declared under control within 20 minutes.

One occupant was transported to the hospital with smoke inhalation. The fire involved the entire kitchen and living room. Cause is under investigation by the Fire Marshal Office.

Auxiliary Celebrates Milestone

On Jan. 20, the TPVFD Auxiliary hosted the Montgomery County Volunteer Fire Rescue Association at the Auxiliary’s monthly meeting. At the same time, the TPVFD Auxiliary celebrated its “50 Year Anniversary of Incorporation” (Dec. 15, 1961). The Auxiliary, a support organization for the firefighters, has served the fire department and community with dedication, pride and commitment during those years. The 2012-2013 Auxiliary officers are as follows: President Betty Fickes, Vice President Patti Butler, Secretary Tina Willey and Treasurer Marion Brown.

Dating safely on the internet

As part of its monthly information outreach, the Community Policing initiative of the Takoma Park Police Department has been distributing tips for staying safe in the internet dating world. More than 20 million Americans go online to find partners, and while there are plenty of success stories, crime experts urge participants to be careful. With no way to screen users, dating web sites include plenty of scammers and sexual predators. The following tips can help keep you safe:

- Only use legitimate sites like Match.com and eHarmony.com.
- Use a separate, free email account to correspond with potential dates.
- Use a cell phone, not a land line, to talk to potential dates.
- Do not display personal information such as home address and phone number in your profile.
- Do not share your personal information too soon with a potential date.
- Choose a public place for first dates, and do not end the evening by going back to your date’s residence or taking your date back to yours.
- If you notice questionable behavior by your standards in a potential date, tell them nicely you are not interested and move on.
- Notify the dating website you are using about a questionable member and provide them with details as to why you believe so.
- Trust your gut instinct.

For more information about internet dating, or about the police campaign for public safety, contact Officer Carla Magnaye at 301-891-7121 or carlam@takomagov.org.

When The Smoke Alarm Sounds, Get Outside and Stay Outside!

- A home escape plan is a plan to get out of your home quickly.
- Get everyone in your home together. Find all doors and windows that lead outside. Make sure they open easily.
- Know at least two ways out of every room, if possible. One way out will be the door and the second way out may be a window or another door.
- Choose a meeting place a safe distance away from house where everyone can meet once they’ve escaped.
- Make sure your house number can be seen from the street.
- Have a plan for anyone in your home who may need assistance to escape, such as young children, older adults or people with disabilities.
- Make sure everyone knows how to call 9-1-1.

Finally, don’t forget to have working smoke alarms on all levels of your home, especially outside of the sleeping areas.

This month's arts offerings, under the banner of "We Are Takoma," feature an eclectic piano concert, two films exploring environmental impact of city lights and coal extraction, and commentary by a traveling dancer. All events are held at the Takoma Park Community Center Auditorium.

First up is "A Conversation," on Tuesday, March 13 at 7:30 p.m. Pianist Carl Banner, who is also involved in Washington Musica Viva (see page 3) will introduce some of his oldest and dearest friends at the keyboard: Schumann, Chopin, Brahms, Joplin, Milhaud, and Gerard. There may even be a little Beethoven and J.S. Bach, as well as some talk about music and life, in the informal and conversational hour of performance. Admission is free.

Then, on Thursday, March 22 at 7:30 p.m., the film, "The City Dark" reveals the effects of light pollution and the disappearance of the stars from our lives. Filmmaker Ian Cheney explores the threat of asteroids in Hawaii, tracks turtles along the beach in Florida, and helps rescue injured birds on the streets of Chicago, using each story to show the implications of a world increasingly filled with light and devoid of the night sky. The discussion following the film will be led by Dr. Harold Alden Williams, Director of the Montgomery College Planetarium, and StarryTeller Elizabeth Wallace.

The film, "The Last Mountain," scheduled the following Thursday, March 29 at 7:30 p.m., explores the struggle between energy needs and conservation, documenting the fight between the two in Coal River Valley, West Virginia. There, a small community of passionate locals is trying to stop the destructive practice of mountain top removal. Following the film, Dance Exchange Artistic Director Cassie Meador will discuss her upcoming project "How to Lose a Mountain" and lead a discussion around issues raised by the film.

This month's screenings are offered in partnership with the Dance Exchange. There is a suggested donation of $5 for "The Last Mountain" and "The City Dark."

THE ARTS

With a nod to graffiti and a quirky sense of blending life and art, Harry Stone's paintings give viewers a peek into the life of one artist/contractor.

"H@ndymen" show balances work, art and culture

Harry Stone is a contractor/business owner/family-man by day, and an artist by night. His show, "H@ndymen," will be up at the Takoma Park Community Center Atrium Gallery from March 16 – May 10, with a reception on Friday, March 23 from 6 – 8 p.m.

A self-taught painter in acrylics and oil who works from a studio in his Silver Spring home, Stone spends free hours pouring over books on art, history, science, philosophy and technology. He is interested in the way public figures become purveyors of pop culture, accepted theory, mass marketing and popular opinion.

Stone's paintings portray the tension of balancing contracting work, creative output, personal introspection and social commentary. In his dozens of joyfully textured, patterned and stylized portraits, Stone depicts one particular type of bearded male subject again and again. The hands depict the mood of the subject. His abstracted figures are often shown with tools of the construction trade alongside recent references to art and mainstream culture. The intuitive approach is original, layered, and fresh; derivative of graffiti, primitively rendered.

Often using text in his paintings, Stone forges intellectual connections with the viewer by quoting and purposely misquoting accepted genius, referencing the ubiquitous presence of a Hollywood icon, or turning a familiar quote on its head. With a nod and a wink, Stone acknowledges the prominence of original ideas, puts them into a new context, and challenges their permanence in today's world.

Poetry reading features four local poets

*Sky perfect dull gray
intermittent spits of rain not cold or warm and just enough wind to get inside a jacket and I have nothing to do and all the time in the world to do it. A good day to go home early turn out all the lights
open the bottle and look through the window at the sky until everything goes dark.*

“Drinking Weather” by Gregory Luce

Featured at this month’s poetry reading is the work of Venezuelan born street performer, puppeteer, poet and artist David Camero, Gregory Luce, Katie Herman and Martin FitzPatrick. The work of poet, father, birder and Enchilada’s Salon blogger, Gregory Luce, has been published in a number of chapbooks, journals and anthologies including Drinking Weather, Living in Storms and Pear Noir! Current MFA student, Katie Herman’s poetry has appeared in the Mississippi Review. Topping off the evening is Martin FitzPatrick, poet and host of the Third Thursday poetry series.

The reading will be held on Thursday, March 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Takoma Park Community Center Auditorium.

Low-income homes get boost from HUD

By Joy Jones

Home sweet home has an entirely different meaning when you’ve experienced being homeless.

Just ask one of the residents of Silver Flower Homes, a newly renovated apartment building for disabled, formerly homeless, low-income adults. Each resident has a different story, but the ending is similar: they each now have a comfortable, attractive, affordable home in a desirable community: Takoma Park.

Silver Flower, a six-unit, brick building at 8316 Flower Avenue, was condemned just three years ago; then the Montgomery County Coalition for the Homeless (MCCH) stepped in. With loans from the Montgomery County Department of Housing and Community Affairs (DHCA) and property tax exemption from the City of Takoma Park, MCCH’s nonprofit development affiliate, Coalition Homes, Inc., purchased the property and renovated it.

support at an event Feb. 2, when a $925,000 grant from U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) was announced. The funds, known as Section 811, are designed to create affordable rental housing with support services to people with disabilities. In this case, they will help pay off the MCCH loan from the county, and continue to subsidize rent for residents, who pay 30 percent of their income in rent.

“Partnerships have been essential to this project,” said Rick Nelson, Director of DHCA. “The County depends on MCCH to follow up with community residents, provide support services and help families integrate into their new housing environments. This is absolutely essential when families and individuals may have special needs in addition to being homeless.”

“People often forget that homelessness exists,” added Jose Nunez, Chief of HUD’s DC Multifamily Program Center. “It’s important to reverse institutional homelessness and reintegrate people with special needs back into neighborhood settings and environments.”

The Feb. 2 event, held at the new property, also celebrated the New Takoma Homes project, two Takoma Park properties purchased by MCCVH and Coalition Homes last year. The project helps house six formerly homeless families.

“We see the families displaced by the loss of a job, or struggling to make ends meet when bills pile up,” said Hugh Carroll, a former Takoma Park resident and president of the Homebuilders Care Foundation, which contributed $10,000 to New Takoma Homes. “Special needs housing is vital for the community and contributions from many are needed to make the kind of projects we are talking about today successful.”

Takoma Park Councilmember Fred Schultz, standing in for Mayor Bruce Williams, said the City was happy to participate. “Everybody is a winner when a project like this happens,” he said.

the City’s crime. In order from highest to lowest, the other wards have 17 percent (Ward 1), 16 percent (Ward 2), 11 percent (Ward 5) and 6 percent (Ward 4). For a map of the wards, go to the City Council page at takomaparkmd.gov.

Ricucci, who will present the annual report to the City Council March 5, is expected to include a review of the department’s accomplishments over the last year. He will describe the work of the community oriented policing (COP) officer, Carla Magnaye, who was hired to be a liaison to residents, keeping them engaged and informed. A new citizen’s academy was also established; it allowed residents to get up close to police work and learn about traffic stops, crime prevention and protocol first hand.

Ricucci will also report on four new, police-related regulations: new procedures for traffic citation trials, race-based traffic stops, and reporting procedures regarding the use of tasers, plus a strengthened ban on cell phone or other digital and electronic devices while behind the wheel.

City Council meetings, including the March 5 meeting, are open to the public, and are held at the Takoma Park Community Center Auditorium, 7500 Maple Ave. Residents can also watch meetings on City TV, or online at takomaparkmd.gov. The police report will be available at takomaparkmd.gov.

BREAD AND CHOCOLATE
■ From page 1

Greek restaurateur (current president Ted Manousakis) and a Swiss chef (the late Ernst Moser), Bread and Chocolate has three area locations: in Old Town Alexandria, at 23rd and M Streets NW in Washington, D.C., and in Chevy Chase, D.C. But Takoma Bistro will be tailored for Takoma Park, says Chief Operating Officer Andy Cook. “It’s such a great spot,” he says. He is excited about being right at the Farmer’s Market, and anticipates lots of interaction with the community, a trademark, he says, of the other Bread and Chocolate locations. The Bistro will offer breakfast, lunch and dinner, as well as a full line of its own baked products and coffees. Owners hope to continue to offer beer and wine as well, once the alcohol license is secured.

Cook envisions about 75 seats once the remodeling is complete; there will be a communal table for sharing up front, a row of seating to the left and tables in the middle. The bar will remain, at least initially. Depending on permits and city regulations, outdoor seating is another possibility. Plans will evolve as the new establishment learns from the community what will work best in this location, and for this clientele.

set up as a carry-out only (no delivery, no seating), with traditional Chinese food as well as American. Think eggrolls, fried rice, kung pao chicken, along with burgers, subs and Buffalo wings, seven days a week.

The three shops are typical of the Crossroads area: ethnically diverse, mom-and-pop operations. Of the 135 businesses at the Crossroads, more than 100 are locally owned, says Melanie Isis, manager of the Crossroads Development Authority, who adds that owners represent a diverse array of nationalities, from American to Latin American, Asian, African, Caribbean and Middle Eastern.

Isis says there are still a number of vacancies at the Crossroads. To keep track of other new businesses in the area, check out <http://thenewave.com> or find TheNewAve on facebook.

It offers a well-rounded array of foods on a bi-weekly or monthly basis as well as some basic non-food items such as paper products and personal care products on a rotation basis.

The pantry, located at the Grace United Methodist Church, 7001 New Hampshire Ave., is open every first Saturday of every month, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and Monday through Friday by appointment only. Library music includes variety of new releases

By Ellen Robbins

With the advent of the recording industry's recent GRAMMY awards, attention has been drawn to some of the best new and established artists in different musical genres.

Here are some of the Library's new music CDs – representing a wide range of talents and styles. Not all are GRAMMY winners or nominees, but they are among the most striking and diverse of well-reviewed albums released within the past year.

BON IVER appeared on the musical scene in 2008, with his album "For Emma, Forever Ago." His second album, "Bon Iver, Bon Iver" was released in 2011. It was nominated by the Recording Academy for Best Album and "Holocene" was nominated for best song. Bon Iver composes in a somewhat unconventional Indie style, with layered and often complex instrumentation. Composer and vocalist Justin Vernon, "simultaneously evokes the grain and expression of soul music along with the mythological echoes of folk," writes Pitchfork.com in an album review. "But more importantly, no one else sounds like him... He sounds centered and clear while taking stock and allowing memories to be mixed in with the details of his present." CD 1915

ADELE'S "21" is the new album by this two-time GRAMMY Award winner, and is named for the age at which she recorded it. "Rolling in the Deep," the album's first single, provides Adele with "the perfect stormy vessel; her voice tossing and turning, shipwrecked and mad but never losing control," writes Margaret Wappler in the LA Times music blog, "Pop and Hiss." "Overall, '21' shows that Adele, now 22, is towering in the same landscape where some of her contemporaries have lost their bearings." CD 1883

AMY WINEHOUSE tragically succumbed to alcohol poisoning in July 2011. "Lioness" is her last album, recorded between 2002 and March of last year. It includes alternative takes, covers and some new material, including the familiar standard "Body and Soul," which she recorded with Tony Bennett. The older singer had high praise for her intuitive and passionate interpretations. "She always described herself as 'a jazz singer' and it's a pleasure to hear her scatting her way through moods and melodies, sketching vocals out, even when they don't work," wrote Helen Brown in the Telegraph. "After all the focus on her unhappiness, it's a reminder that this is what she loved doing – and that even when she was finding her way through narratives of heartbreak and despair, Winehouse was at a kind of play." CD 1914

Former Library Director Remembered

Betty Barclay, former director of the Takoma Park Maryland Library, died in November 2011 at the age of 90.

Barclay served as head librarian from January 1973 until July of 1982. She began employment as an adult page in 1964, and often helped Children's Librarian Adelaide Frazer with story hour. She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Library Science from the University of Maryland in 1971.

A native of Cheltenham, Penn., Barclay moved to Takoma Park with her husband in the early 1950s. She raised four children while earning her Library degree and working at the Takoma Park Library, first as a volunteer and then as Head Librarian.

Barclay worked closely with the Friends of the Library and watched collections and children's programs develop and grow during her tenure. She fostered an atmosphere of friendly informality and helpfulness, as she knew patrons by name, as well as their kids' names and their reading tastes.

Barclay understood the importance of preserving the small town atmosphere for which the City Library was known, and which continues to this day.

Upon her retirement in 1982, the City Council adopted a special resolution of appreciation, which read, in part: "Her love and devotion for the printed word, her professional skills, and her kindness and fidelity to the patrons young and old, have set a most worthy example of public service."

Barclay is survived by her daughters Julia and Ann, and her sons Ian and Alan.

Richard Harris to Speak at Library

Award-winning journalist Richard Harris will be the featured guest speaker at the Friends of the Library Annual Meeting and Board election on Tuesday, March 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Harris reports on science issues for National Public Radio's Morning Edition, All Things Considered and Weekend Edition. In 2010 his reporting uncovered that the blown-out BP oil well in the Gulf of Mexico was spewing out far more oil than asserted in official estimates. He covered the United Nations climate negotiations and was a major contributor to NPR's award-winning "Climate Connections." Last year, his engagement to speak at the Takoma Park Library had to be cancelled when he was assigned to Japan to cover the giant tsunami and its aftermath.

A brief election for open seats on the Friends Board, and socializing with refreshments will follow Harris' talk. Members of the Friends whose dues are current are eligible to serve on the Board and vote in the election. Those interested in serving on the Board may contact Ellen Robbins at 301-891-7258 or by e-mail at ellenr@takomagov.org for information. Positions open for re-election include president, vice president, treasurer, membership chair, secretary and member at large. New officers are not eligible to serve as treasurer.

Friends Reading Group to discuss "The Leopard" by Lampedusa

Giuseppe di Lampedusa didn't live to see the publication, or even the acceptance of his masterpiece, which was rejected twice before it was published in November of 1958—four months after the author died of lung cancer at the age of 60. Thereafter its trajectory was swift. Upon its publication in the United States, the New York Times Book Review likened Lampedusa's style to Flaubert's and Stendhal's, and praised his "happy merging of dry irony with subtle poetic feeling," and his depiction of its central character Don Fabrizio "torn between lust and intelligence." E.M. Forster wrote: "Reading and rereading it has made me realize how many ways there are of being alive, how many doors there are, close to one, which someone else's touch may open."

The novel tells the story of Don Fabrizio, the last Prince of Salina in Sicily, and the fortunes of his family between 1860 and 1910. In particular, it recounts the events that befall the prince's favorite nephew, Tancredi, who supports the unification efforts of Giuseppe Garibaldi. It is Tancredi who speaks the novel's most famous line: "If we want things to stay as they are," he tells his uncle, "things will have to change." "Tancredi's declaration lies at the heart of 'The Leopard,' at once a loving portrait of a vanished society and a critique of its provincialism," writes Rachel Donadio in the New York Times.

All are invited to attend the Friends Reading Group discussions. "The Leopard" will be discussed on Wednesday, April 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Center Azalea Room.

Notables for children

Is your child looking for some great reading? Check out the display of award-winning books in our Children's Room. Just look for the "Notables" sign hanging from the ceiling over the shelves in the far end of the room. The books on display offer something for every age and taste: board books, picture books, beginning readers, novels, non-fiction and even comics. All of the books were chosen for the "Notable Children's Book" list, which is created annually by a committee of children's librarians, and published by the American Library Association. The list, nicknamed the "Notables," always includes the major award winners – Caldecott, Newbery, etc. – but there also are several dozen other wonderful books chosen for their excellence. Our display includes books from the "Notables" lists of the past few years, so there's plenty of choice.

Tumblebook on line

Offer your kids some online fun and learning with our e-books in the Tumblebook Library. Just go onto our website – www.takomapark.info/library — and look for the "Online Resources" box at the right-hand top of the page. Click on arrow under the "Books, Magazines and Newspapers" category, and choose either "Tumblebooks for Children" (picture books and some non-fiction books in English, Spanish and French; lots of puzzles and games as well) or "TumbleReadables" (chapter books and novels). All you need to access these books is a computer with a fairly up-to-date version of flash and an Internet connection; you don't need a dedicated e-reader device.

TINARIWEN means "deserts" in the language of the Tuaregs of the southern Sahara. The musical group of that name has sought to return to its roots with its newest album, "Tassili." "We wanted to go back to our origins, to the experience of ishumar, which means exile," explains Eyadou ag Leche, the band's bass player. Thus this CD, "was rehearsed and recorded out of doors...in tents and around campfires like those where the group's founding members, political exiles then living in refugee settlements, first came together to play," writes Larry Rohter in the New York Times. Rohter describes the group's music as "a hard-rocking hybrid of Berber, Arab, Western and black African styles...it has sometimes been called 'desert blues,' as the group's penchant for writing songs in minor key modes...creates a sound that has a blue feeling." CD 1906

Joshua Bell is an accomplished violinist, and his popularity has steadily grown since his impromptu concert in a D.C. Metro station during morning rush hour several years ago. At that time, he remained unrecognized and largely unnoticed. In his new album, "French Impressions," recorded with pianist Jeremy Denk, he continues to display his evolving talent and virtuosity. In "The Observer," reviewer Fiona Maddocks calls this "seriously beguiling disc...a first essential purchase for 2012." CD 1912

"It goes without saying that BILL FRISSELL – one of the most imaginative and versatile jazz guitarists of the past three decades – would not approach an album of John Lennon interpretations in the same way that anyone else would," writes reviewer Jeff Tamarkin, who calls Frisell a "tireless seeker of sonic innovations." He "makes these familiar songs fresh again..largely avoiding standard jazz instrumentaions," says relix.com. The album is "All We Are Saying," and Frisell is accompanied by violinist Jenny Scheinman and guitarist Greg Leisz. CD 1913

The ten-member CREOLE CHOIR was founded in Camaguey in 1994, and was originally known as Grupo Vocal Desandann. Desandann means 'descendants' in Creole, and the group has pursued its commitment to celebrate and enliven the 19th century songs of their Haitian ancestors, even as its popularity has spread outside Cuba. Its first U.S. tour in 2011 brought acclaim, and the new album, released on Peter Gabriel's Real World label, is "Tandela." CD 1905

COLDPLAY's fifth album is "Mylo Xylo." Composer and lead musician Chris Martin says the album "was inspired by 1970s New York graffiti and the Nazi-resistance movement known as the White Rose...it's probably no coincidence both were about young people embracing art in times of turmoil," writes Josh Eells in Rolling Stone. Rihanna partners with Martin in a touching ballad called "Princess of China." Reviewer Eells observes that Martin "is in the uplift business...Mylo Xylo" suggests he's fully embraced his role as a not-terribly-cool-guy who's good at preaching perseverance, in a voice that's warm and milky, like afternoon tea." CD 1908

MARKETA IRGLOVA is probably best known for her debut in the film "Once," with Glen Hansard, whose band, The Swell Season recorded the GRAMMY award-winning "Falling Slowly." The album "Anar" is her first solo effort, with Irglova both singing and playing the piano. In Glide Magazine, reviewer Jason MacNeil contends that it is "...as haunting, brilliant and spine-tingling as anything she did before in the other group...Rarely has a debut been this consistent and impressive." CD 1907

"Piazzolla in Brooklyn" by the PABLO

We also offer more than 1,000 streaming, unabridged audiobooks (mostly for teens and adults) through our "AudioBookCloud" database. And don't forget our language learning programs: "Little Pim" for ages 1-6 and "Mango" for kids and adults. You can access them for free with your library card by going to our website and clicking on the "Learning and Research Tools" link in the "Online Resources" box. Questions? Just give us a call at 301-891-7259— we're more than happy to help our patrons enjoy these online tools.

Join the comics jam

If your child loves comics, make plans to come to our monthly "Comics Jam" program on Tuesday, March 6 at 4 p.m. We'll read comics on the big screen in the Children's Room with our graphic novel guru Dave Burbank; kids are welcome to bring comics they'd like to read with Dave. Our program concludes with Dave taking drawing requests from kids in the audience (ever seen anyone draw a "grouchy bike"? Dave can do it!). No registration required; just come and enjoy a different kind of book club.

ASLAN QUINTET was developed as a reworking of a 1950s album, "Take Me Dancing!" and their first produced specifically for U.S. audiences. The band has become identified with a unique fusion of jazz and tango. In "Piazzolla in Brooklyn," says Lawrence Peryer in "All About Jazz," "Aslan set out to use the original arrangements of the compositions, which individually had intriguing bits of melody, as starting points for a more fully realized integration of jazz and tango, more in keeping with Piazzolla's own true artistry." The result is cleaner, and more arresting overall. CD 1909

FLORENCE AND THE MACHINE are an English indie band featuring lead singer Florence Welch backed by other artists. They released their first album, "Lungs," in 2009, and it became one of the UK's best selling albums in 2009 and 2010. Their new album is "Ceremonials," and according to reviewer Kitty Empire, it "more closely resembles a banshee convention in a wind turbine...The production is high-church – harps, bells, shimmers, strings and keyboards that seem to breed over the course of the album. The cresting choruses are never less than heroic." Despite such reservations, this reviewer admits that "big is not all bad," and finds some tracks on the album "compelling anthems" and others "smaller treasures" despite an overabundance of "blowsy mainstreaming." CD 1911

PINK MARTINI is an eclectic Oregon-based band, whose music is a blend of swing jazz, world music, cabaret, lounge and 1940s-50s film music. Its influences have included French chanson, Afro-Cuban salsa, Argentinian tango, Brazilian samba and bossa nova, Italian folk, Greek rembetiko, Middle Eastern and Asian music. The lead singer, China Forbes, has performed in at least 10 different languages. This retrospective collection includes 21 tracks from the band's six albums recorded between 1997 and 2011. CD 1910

The boys of Cub Scout Pack 33, Den 2, took cameras in hand with Takoma Park City TV crews last month, as they worked toward achieving their Bear Badges. The Bear requires a series of projects meant to instill values like good personal health, good decision-making, honesty, civic spirit and community pride. At City TV, Scouts learned about two things they encounter every day in different ways: watching TV, and the broader Takoma Park community.

By getting behind the cameras and sitting at the editing stations, the Scouts learned what it’s like to turn an idea into a polished, finished product, with all the creative choices and decisions that go along with that. At the same time, they learned all the many things that happen behind the scenes to make our city what it is, and the resources available to everyone who lives here.

Scouts also visit the police and fire stations; perform service and stewardship projects like creek and street cleanups; take part in responsibility-building activities like running the children’s games at the Takoma Park Folk Festival; and march in the 4th of July Parade.

Start training for the annual 5K

Takoma Park Safe Routes to School holds its annual 5K Challenge again this year, on Sunday, May 6 beginning at 8 a.m. School groups are already beginning to train! The race is fun for the whole family, with 5K, 1-mile, 1/4-mile options. For more information or to register, go to www.tkpk5k.com. All proceeds fund PTA programs focusing on pedestrian safety, health and fitness. Packets can be picked up at City Sports Silver Spring, 8510 Fenton Street, Silver Spring, on Saturday, May 5 from 2 to 6 p.m.

Soccer gets rolling this month

It’s not too late to register for the spring season of Takoma Soccer. The league has teams for girls and boys from nursery school through high school. The season starts the weekend of March 17-18 and goes until the middle of May. No games on the weekend of April 7-8.

You can sign up online at the league website—www.takomasoccer.org—or come to walk-in registration Saturday, March 3, from 10 a.m. to noon, at the Takoma Park Community Center. The fee is $50, but scholarships are available to families in the federal lunch program or similar programs. For more information go to the website.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE PLANT A TREE

Discount Trees Available to Beautify Yards, Replace the Canopy

The season is right to plant trees, and in Takoma Park that means residents can help replenish the aging tree canopy in the City. As last year, there is an added incentive of the City paying $100 towards the cost of the first tree purchased (unless it is a replacement tree required as part of a Tree Removal permit). Residents can add a tree to their yards for just $95 plus 6 percent sales tax, a total of $100.70. Add a second tree and the bill is still only $307.40, planted and guaranteed for one year.

Established discounts still apply as well, through the City's annual bulk buy tree sale. As a purchasing agent with Arbor Landscapers, the City is making five species available at wholesale prices. Black gum, white oak, willow oak, red maple and Princeton elm—all native shade trees that usually retail for about $350—are available to residents at $195, installed.

Sale dates run through May 11.

ORDER FORM

Please include check, including tax, written to the City of Takoma Park and be sure to draw a map of the property and locations for installation (see order form). Submit to Todd Bolton, Takoma Park Department of Public Works, 31 Oswego Ave., Silver Spring, Md., 20910 by close of business Oct. 17

Someone will be in touch regarding installation dates.
