Hello and Goodbye

Reflections on more than three decades as director of the Takoma Park, MD Library

By Ellen Robbins

Each and every accomplishment, program, or innovation that has been part of the library’s story during my time as director has been the product of many engaged, thoughtful, and creative staff. So what I can best take personal credit for is the willingness to recognize and encourage the talents of many and to applaud their successes.

In that spirit, here are some of Food security just next door

By Sean Gossard

For those who are food-insecure in Takoma Park and the surrounding areas, there is now a way to get healthy meals free of charge and directly from a community refrigerator.

Started this fall by restaurateur Mark Bucher, the owner of the D.C.-area steakhouse Medium Rare, Feed the Fridge is meant to make sure everyone has access to a healthy meal while also helping area restaurants hit hard by the pandemic. The latest spot for Feed the Fridge ribbon cutting last month.

All businesses with a physical retail or office space in Takoma Park are eligible to apply. Grantees must buy 100% green electricity for a minimum of 24 months after grant award. If a rate comparable to Pepco’s standard offer is not available, additional funding to offset the difference may be added to the grant award. All funded projects must be completed by June 30, 2021. Selected grantees may choose to be reimbursed directly after submitting receipts and proof.

Park renovations in progress

Montgomery County’s Montgomery Parks department, spearheaded by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC), is currently working on renovating three of our local parks: Hillwood Manor Neighborhood Park, Sligo Creek Stream Valley Park (Kennebec), and Silver Spring Intermediate Neighborhood Park.

The Hillwood Manor Neighborhood Park renovation project will be bringing in new playground equipment to replace the older structures. In June 2020, residents were asked to comment on the preliminary plan for equipment upgrades. A new forum will become available for residents to view and comment on the preliminary plan, which includes feedback from residents who participated last June.

The Sligo Creek Stream Valley Park (Kennebec) renovation project will also focus on replacing playground equipment that were last installed in 1986, as well as improving accessibility by adjusting the trailways and relocating the parking lot. The proposed goal is to increase connectivity and visibility for people using the playground, trails and the area.

Similarly, the Silver Spring Intermediate Neighborhood Park renovation project (at Philadelphia and Chicago Avenues) will be bringing in new park amenities, improving existing fields, and redeveloping existing entryways. The changes featured in the $1.6 million county-funded project will work to enhance ADA accessibility and improve stormwater drainage.

FOOD SECURITY

the Fridge opened in early February outside the Takoma Park Recreation Center at 7315 New Hampshire Avenue, offering Takoma Park residents, especially children and the elderly, a safe and reliable place for meals, no questions asked.

There is no registration or ID required to get a meal, and the refrigerators are cleaned and stocked daily. “They’re not checking in with anybody; there isn’t any list,” Bucher told DCist.com in December. “It’s dignified.”

Every day, Monday through Friday, the fridges are filled with between 25 and 100 meals. So far, there are nearly 20 Feed the Fridge locations around D.C., including the Recreation Center and Takoma Aquatic Center at 300 Van Buren St. NW. “We look forward to having them in the community and are thankful to add them to groups assisting those in need,” said Takoma Park Mayor Kate Stewart.

The plan is to keep on growing. According to Feed the Fridge’s website, “by the end of 2021, our goal is to deliver over 500,000 free nutritious meals prepared by local restaurants.” The meals feature a mix of carbs, protein and vegetables and are from restaurants including Medium Rare, Cava, and Duke’s Grocery, with more expected to join the initiative.

The restaurants that are participating get paid $6 per meal through Bucher’s nonprofit We Care, according to DCist. Food insecurity has been a growing problem during the pandemic, with the rate of food insecurity in Montgomery County predicted to jump from 8 percent in 2018 to 13 percent this year, according to the nonprofit Feeding America.

“COVID-19 has impacted many in our community, in particular exacerbating issues of food insecurity,” Stewart said. “We are grateful to all the community members, nonprofits, and City staff who have stepped in to help those most in need.” To help by donating to Feed the Fridge, visit feedthefridge.org. According to the site, $20 buys a few meals and $50 can buy seven meals.

Make a Difference – Plant a Tree

The City of Takoma Park is excited to once again offer discounted tree plantings to property owners this spring.

Trees offer numerous benefits to the public at large, including cooling the city, intercepting stormwater, supporting a robust local ecology, and providing for aesthetic improvement of our urban landscape. With a changing climate and increasing environmental stressors challenging our mature tree populations, planting new young trees is more important than ever. You can be a part of this important cause by having a tree planted in your yard and we are here to help you make that happen. Here is a brief rundown of how the program works and how you will benefit:

• For the first tree, half of the cost is covered by the city. The cost to you for the first tree is $130.
• For additional trees, you get the city’s reduced ‘bulk-buy’ pricing. The cost to you for additional trees is $260 per tree.
• The Urban Forest Manager will coordinate the entire ordering and planting processes to ensure a smooth and high-quality tree planting, saving you the time and effort.

You get a minimum 1.5" caliber tree (6–10 feet tall) planted with a ring of mulch and a deer guard.

The tree species available through the program are:
• Black gum
• Southern Magnolia
• Sycamore
• River birch
• Swamp White Oak
• American Linden
• Bald Cypress

A fillable order form can be found on the City’s website (takomaparkmd.gov/government/public-works/tree-care-and-resources). A paper copy of the order form can be obtained at the Public Works building at 31 Owego Avenue. Payments can be made by check. Order forms must be mailed or dropped off at the Public Works building by March 26 to be included in the spring planting. Plantings will occur sometime in mid to late April. The Urban Forest Manager will be in touch with you throughout the process to coordinate the planting. We look forward to working with you to restore the urban forest canopy of Takoma Park and beautify your yard.

Rodent Control

Rats and mice have no respect for economic level or status. You may be very careful about how you store your household garbage but if you let the apples from your tree lie on the ground or feed your dog outside, you are inviting rodents to dinner. Rats and mice have adapted to live in close association with people where they cause tremendous damage and spread disease.

The two most common rodents encountered by citizens of Takoma Park are the Norway rat and the house mouse. Both of these rodents are good jumpers, climbers, swimmers and gnawers.

The Norway rat is a burrower, usually nesting in a dirt burrow up to 150 feet from its food supply.

The house mouse usually nests indoors within stored materials, but can also live outside, burrowing in areas around fields and lawns. Mice often become a problem where they enter homes in the fall seeking warmth. Mice occupy a small territory, traveling only 10 to 30 feet from their nests for food.

Checking for Rats and Mice

The most important signs of rodents are burrows, droppings, tracks, runways, gnawing, urine stains, odor, live or dead rodents, nests and rodent-gnawed food. Rodents are more apt to be seen or heard shortly after dark and in the early morning.

Look for rat burrows, especially around concrete slabs and building foundations, under materials stored outdoors and along fence rows or embankments. A rat’s

Eliminating Food Sources

• DO NOT store garbage outside in plastic bags. Plastic garbage bags are not rodent-proof.
• Plastic bags should only be used inside garbage cans with tight-fitting lids.
• DO NOT allow birdseed to accumulate on the ground. Do not leave pet food outside. Store pet food or birdseed in container with a tight-fitting lid.
• DO NOT leave ripe fruit and vegetables under trees or in the garden to decay.
• DO NOT place food scraps in compost piles.
• DO remove any piles of debris or building material such as old brick or boards that may provide shelter for rodents.
• DO clear brush, weeds and heavy ground covers, especially around foundations.

Talking About Poetry in Takoma Park

A Conversation with Poet Jona Colson

Jona Colson teaches in the English Language for Academic Purposes Department at Montgomery College’s Takoma Park/Silver Spring campus and is the author of a poetry collection titled Said Through Glass. He served as poetry editor for This is What America Looks Like, an anthology of poetry and fiction from 100 authors in the D.C. area.

The City of Takoma Park’s Takoma Park Arts cultural series will host an online poetry reading with eight poets featured in the book at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 18 on Zoom. You can find the details and sign up for our weekly e-newsletter at www.takomaparkmd.gov/arts. Arts events in the Takoma Park Arts cultural series have moved online with new film screenings, concerts, poetry readings, and more.

O’Toole: Tell us about your book Said Through Glass.

Colson: This book was 20 years in the making. I’ve always been fascinated with writers who “extend the metaphor,” yet the metaphor still works because it’s tethered to reality. I want to write on that path, to take images that are dreamlike and to stretch them as far as I can, just to the other side of reality but still make it believable.

I studied Spanish in college and was influenced by the magical realists. I often get asked at readings about the personal elements in my writing. Through imagery and language, I work to create something that allows me to bear witness to reality but from a distance. Our job is to make experience universal with language and art.

O’Toole: What do you enjoy about teaching at Montgomery College?

Colson: All my students are non-native speakers, and they are from all over the world, including West African, Ethiopian, Bangladeshi, and Latinx students. I love my students. It’s been a real joy to teach here.

O’Toole: Let’s talk about the anthology This Is What America Looks Like and the Takoma Park Arts online poetry reading on March 18.

Colson: Washington Writers Publishing House published my first book, and I offered to serve as poetry editor for this anthology. It was an open call, and we think it represents the American narrative, where we are right now with the pandemic, Black Lives Matter movement, and so many other pressing issues. We wanted to include established writers and totally new voices. I was struck by so many poets’ and writers’ ability to write about these moments that were still unfolding with such power and depth.

Poetry from Young and Old Takes Concrete Form

Takoma Park Poet Laureate Kathleen O’Toole has led poetry workshops with students at Piney Branch Elementary School and seniors through the city of Takoma Park’s seniors program. The workshops helped promote the Takoma Park Arts and Humanities Division’s sidewalk poetry project where more than 100 local adults and children have submitted original poems with a chance to win a $100 award and have their poem stamped into a local sidewalk. O’Toole is leading a committee that will select the winners. She spoke with Arts and Humanities Division Coordinator Brendan Smith about the project.

How did your workshops go with the seniors and Piney Branch students? What’s it like working with people from opposite ends of the age spectrum?

O’Toole: In each workshop we were focused on short poems (mostly haiku), and the seniors have more memories to draw from but also the challenge of shifting from the adult world of abstractions to focus on the freshness of immediate images and experiences. Working with young kids is fascinating. They have so much imagination and eagerness to share their experiences that it’s tough to keep up with their questions and energy on Zoom.

What excites you about the sidewalk poetry contest?

O’Toole: The simplicity of writing something in five lines or less creates an opportunity for people who don’t consider themselves poets to try it. It’s not daunting, and the opportunity to be recognized and have your words immortalized in a concrete sidewalk is enticing.

What are the challenges and rewards of writing very short poems or haiku?

O’Toole: For me, the rewards of haiku in particular involve capturing fleeting moments and experiences that might otherwise be lost. We move so fast and have so much information flying around us, it’s rewarding to notice the small accidents and juxtapositions: Birds (and squirrels) at the feeder in snow, sparrow chatter and car alarms, and seeing both magnolia buds and icicles during a walk is life-giving during these sobering times.

What is the poetry community like in the D.C. area as far as diversity and range of styles?

O’Toole: It’s vibrant, diverse, and growing. Some of the same young people who’ve made their voices heard politically are also involved in poetry. We have everyone from academic poets to seasoned, widely published poets to spoken word poets of just about every age and background. Poetry readings of traditional and experimental styles are all over Zoom. Look no farther than the enthusiastic response to Amanda Gorman’s inauguration poem, how her youth and embodied language put a fresh face on poetry for all of us.

With the closing of schools because of busy schedules (work, parents, children) that otherwise would not be able to transport their children to the site for live instruction. My online classes build a sense of community with the participants and provide fun, educational, and creative experiences.

Q: What do you hope participants take away from your classes?

A: A love of lifetime learning, and that education should be fun and creative. I hope all of my students leave each class with a positive self-image, feeling creative, happy, inspired, and energized.

Q: How do you know when you have had a successful class?

A: I judge success by the smiling faces of my students as we finish each class with the sign language of good job, a wave or a gesture of a kiss blown off a hand. Also, by the photos that their parents so kindly email to me of various sized pieces that are easy to understand, and seeing the joy in my students’ faces when they are being creative and comprehending concepts. After leaving my directorship role at Dance Place, I decided to focus my attention to the community in which I have lived for 37 years, Takoma Park.

Friends Book Group Discussion with Tim Rahn

The Friends Book Group will discuss The Turner House by Angela Flournoy on Thursday, March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in an online meeting. A National Book Award finalist in 2015, The Turner House takes place in during the summer of 2008 in Detroit. The Turners of the title are a large African-American family of 13 children. The house is the family home, now vacant in a decaying neighborhood of Detroit’s East Side and the source of conflict within the family.

Flournoy focuses the narrative on three of the children: Charles or Cha-Cha the oldest, Leala the youngest now squatting in the vacant house, and Troy one of the middle children trying to assert his own worth in the family. The novel reveals and explores the influences of the previous generations in the family giving the reader a complex portrait of an American family. Added to the multigenerational mix are “haints” or ghosts that seem to plague the family, in particular Cha-Cha. By using haints, Flournoy provides an element of magical realism to the story. “Flournoy moves from one point of view to another,” wrote Amanda Holmes Duffy in her review of the novel, “handling a range of psychological and emotional perspectives with an acuity that belies the inherent challenges of this approach.” If you are interested in joining the discussion, and you do not receive Friends Book Group announcements, write to ftpmlbookgroup@gmail.com for details on joining.

Copies of The Turner House can be borrowed from the library.

Book Reviews: Do you have a middle school or high school student who likes to read and write? They can earn Student Services Learning (SSL) hours by writing book reviews for the library’s Facebook page. The reviews are generally short (about eight sentences) about books of their choice for 1 SSL hour per review. If your teen is interested, contact Children’s Librarian Kati Nolfi at kathrynn@takomaparkmd.gov.

WinterQuest: If you have not yet tried our WinterQuest reading game, you have still got a bit of time to do so! Just pick up a paper gameboard and story on Saturdays from 12-6 (look for the purple cart) or use the online version, which can be found on the Friends of the Takoma Park Maryland Library’s website: https://fplml.org/winterquest2020-2021. WinterQuest is a wonderful way to shake up the winter reading doldrums; the game continues until the first day of spring, March 20. March 20.
March 2021 Takoma Park News

The amazing experiences that we have shared over the years:
- The beginning of public programs for kids, including 2-year-olds, which was at one time a novelty – Thanks to Anne Delibert
- The re-incarnation of the Friends of the Takoma Park Maryland Library
- The beginning of years of fundraising book sales – originally with help from Andy Cincotta, and later Patti Mallin with Tom Roberts, and Merrill Leffler with the Friends
- The vision and effort leading toward successful library interior renovations in 1990 with help from Ray Rader (We were virtually subcontractors with full oversight as the work progressed. More than 350 people signed a thank-you letter when the project was finished.)
- The creation of the Takoma Park Film Festival and the Favorite Poem Evening – thanks to Jillian Hershberger and Wendy Ripley of what was then CUC.
- The Liz Lerman Dance Exchange evening of original dance in the library (yes, with staff!)
- The Mike Morrissey Golf Tournaments, which raised funds for the Library with golling assistance from Dave Burbank, Gene Miller, and Nic Fontem
- The highly successful book clubs for adults – begun by Merrill Leffler and continued by Phil Schewe and Tim Rahm
- The amazing work of Karen MacPherson in initiating a Banned Book Club for kids – for which she and then middle schooler Alanna Natanson were awarded the prestigious John Philip Immroth Award by the American Library Association
- Karen’s partnership with Politics and Prose Bookstore, which has brought us innumerable illustrious children’s authors and illustrators
- The creation of our own remarkable SummerQuest summer reading program with purchasable supplies of original art and stories by Dave Burbank
- The area’s best collection of graphic novels for kids and adults curated by Dave
- The very first library automation with help and hard work from Nic Fontem and Rebecca Brown as well as the staff and residents of Takoma Park
- The migration to an integrated management library system (ILS), the creation of our library web page, the introduction of public computers, the creative staff schedules which enabled us to open on Sundays, and the development of our current Books-to-go program (Nearly every step in Library automation, which depended on the library’s own energy and resources for many years, none would have been possible without Rebecca Brown’s efforts.)
- When the Library building had to close its doors in March of last year, services continued to flourish through the creativity and tenacity of Janet Jendrzejk
- Elizabeth Ferry, Gene Miller, Jill Raymond, Kati Nolfi, Phil Shapiro, Karen, Dave, Wanda Hsung, Anne LeVeque, Mary Rein, and others.

What really has made all of these things possible, in addition to our wonderful staff, is the freedom and flexibility of being an independent Library, which along with community support, has allowed us to grow and thrive.

And I extend special thanks to City Manager Suzanne Ladlow, who understood and helped us leverage opportunities for growth and progress toward a new building.

It has been a privilege.

PARK RENOVATIONS

Staying mentally and physically fit

By Sean Gossard

For more than five years, jiu-jitsu instructor Deivid Dias has been helping Takoma Park residents stay fit mentally and physically with self-defense and jiu-jitsu training. And with an end to the pandemic still a ways off, it’s a great time to tend to that self-care.

“My focus is on Brazilian jiu-jitsu, which involves grappling and submission moves so that the smaller and weaker can defeat the bigger and stronger using chokes and arm locks,” Dias said. “Our main goal is to encourage all to make healthy exercise habits part of our lives.”

A self-defense martial art, Brazilian jiu-jitsu dates back to the 1920s and was once popular among mixed martial art fighters in the UFC. Dias, a native of Brazil, opened WDC Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu and Fitness Academy at 720 Erie Ave. on the corner of Erie Avenue and Flower Avenue three years ago and has been teaching jiu-jitsu, self-defense, and personal fitness.

Dias is a GF Team Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu brown belt and has competed in international competitions.

Lately, he’s been adapting to the challenges of the pandemic. “It’s been tough on me too,” he said. “I’ve lost half my students and stopped doing classes with children for their safety.”

To keep things safer, Dias has cut the size of classes, implemented temperature checks, added air purifiers, and requires mask use during training. “First we do temperature checks right away and do solo drills and designate partners with people who have been in the same groups for a few months now,” he said.

Despite the added pressures of the pandemic, Dias is staying positive that things will return to normal soon. “We’re living through a weird time,” he said, “but this is the beginning of the end.”

And while he isn’t adding new students to his classes, he is offering one-on-one training or small group self-defense training. “I do provide regular private and small group classes, jiu-jitsu, self-defense, and personal fitness,” Dias said. If you’re interested in training with Dias, visit www.wdcbjj.com.

Caring About Residents Everyday (CARE) Program

Caring About Residents Everyday (CARE) is a program directed at our residents who live alone with special needs, or just need to be checked on each day. To be a part of CARE, residents who need to be checked on will register with the Police Department. They will call us once each day between 12 p.m. and 5 p.m. If they don't call, we will call them. If they do not answer, we will send a patrol officer to check on their welfare. This program is to protect those in need and bring a sense of peace to those friends and relatives who care, but who are not close enough to check themselves. CARE is another way we can give back to the community and take care of those in need. To register for this program:

- Contact Cathy Plevy at cathyp@takomaparkmd.gov.
- Find the agreement and registration form on our website at takomaparkmd.gov, government/police/services-and-programs/caring-about-residents-everyday-care-2, or
- On the police page, click on services and programs.

New Opportunities—Good News!

By Claudine Schweber, co-chair, Takoma Park Emergency Preparedness Committee

With all the difficulties of the past year, it is a pleasure to share some good news in the form of three new opportunities to get help. Vaccine access, emergency 911 texting for those with disabilities, and access to the internet.

Vaccine Hunters

The COVID-19 vaccine rollout has been difficult to navigate for many people. The elderly are believed to be particularly vulnerable, but getting access or mastering the internet process can especially difficult for seniors. Now, there's help!

Many seniors were having trouble getting vaccine appointments, so a group of eight women—Montgomery County teachers—formed “Vaccine Hunters” at the end of January. Their interest is helping others get the COVID vaccine, especially those over 75 who may not have friends or family available locally or who don’t have access to the internet or the skill to navigate the sign-up process. This help is offered in English and Spanish. Vaccine Hunters developed a database of places offering the vaccine contained in one spreadsheet—at 22 locations! This has been so valuable that more 220 seniors were booked their first week in operation.

As of mid-February, appointments had to be halted due to lack of vaccines. Check the Facebook page (www.facebook.com/vaccinehunters) and the spreadsheet for updates. During this time, the group is doing advocacy to the Montgomery County Health Department, the County Council, and the Latino Health Initiative to expand access. More. They provide telephone assistance, and more.

As vaccine information is rapidly changing we encourage all residents to visit the Montgomery County Vaccine Website (www.montgomerycountymd.gov/covid19/vaccine) as well as Maryland State Vaccine Website (coronavirus.maryland.gov/pages/vaccine) for updated information. We also encourage all residents to text “MDReady” to 898-211 to get alerts from the State, including notices of when there are available appointments at the mass vaccination sites.

ground burrow will have an irregularly rounded opening, two to three inches in diameter. A mouse's burrow is much smaller. An active burrow entrance will be hard-packed and clear of leaves and other debris. To find out if the burrow is active, loosely fill the opening of the hole with dirt. If a rat is still present, it will reopen the hole. Remove droppings and check to see if more appear. Do not completely fill or destroy burrows until after the rodents have been exterminated. Rats cannot be eliminated by blocking their burrows.

Rodents use the same runways to move from place to place. Active runways will be clean and smooth, frequently following along a wall or fence. Along well-used runways, the oils from the rodent's fur leave dirty, greasy rub marks on the areas they frequently touch.

Because the incisor teeth of rodents grow continuously, they must gnaw to keep them worn down. You may find gnawed wood or other items.

Rodent Proofing

Rodents can enter homes through open or unscreened doors and windows, ventilators, floor drains, cracks and breaks in foundations and holes around electric conduits and pipes where they enter foundations or go through floors and walls. Rats and mice require only a very small opening to gain entry. Rats can gnaw a hole if they find a chipped or indented edge from which to start. Close all openings and cover edges that can be chewed with gnaw-proof materials such as sheet metal, cement or hardware cloth.

Doors should close tightly with no gaps at the bottom. All windows, especially basement windows near ground level should have tight fitting screens.

Seal openings around pipes or conduits. Where pipes enter wood, nail sheet metal around the pipe. Where pipes enter masonry, force heavy hardware cloth or steel wool into the opening, and then fill with concrete.

If you have rats nesting on your property, you will need the cooperation of your neighbors since chances are they too are sheltering or inadvertently feeding rats. You can contact a qualified pest control company to handle the rodent control for you, or you can do the job yourself with products available at your local hardware store.

Create an Accessory Dwelling Unit in your Single Family Home Webinar

Thursday, March 25, 7–8 p.m.

Do you have a basement or other space in your home that could easily be converted into a separate apartment? Montgomery County allows for these Accessory Dwelling Units on properties zoned for single family homes. ADUs provide a source of income for the homeowner, and offer opportunities for renters looking for housing in neighborhood settings. Learn about the requirements for an ADU permit and a City of Takoma Park rental housing license, in a conversation with the City’s Licensing Specialist, Patti Mallin, and Montgomery County’s Ivan Eloisa, who oversees ADU inspections, and TPKP homeowners who already have approved ADUs. The discussion will include the City’s new Up to Code ADU grant program. Contact Patti Mallin at pattim@takomaparkmd.gov or 240-315-8721 for more information, and watch the Insider and the City’s social media for registration information.

Parkinson’s and Movement Disorder Support Group

Do you have Parkinson’s or another movement disorder? Or are you a caregiver? If so, you might be interested in our informal support group which meets monthly to share resources and experiences. Our meetings are virtual with a Zoom call, but soon we hope to return to in-person meetings at the Takoma Park Municipal Building. It is free, and you don’t have to be a resident of Takoma Park. For further information, contact Tom Bigford at tebigford@gmail.com or 301-580-4056.

Takoma Park’s 2021 4th of July Celebration

Each January, the Takoma Park Independence Day Committee (TPIDC) meets to begin planning for Takoma Park’s annual 4th of July Celebration, which traditionally includes a parade, evening program, and fireworks. This year the committee is assessing what type of celebration might be possible given the ongoing public health crisis around the COVID-19 pandemic, potential ongoing restrictions on crowd size, and the safety of all who join the celebration each year. We are exploring all potential options. It may be different this year, but if there is a way to do so safely, we hope to celebrate the 132nd anniversary of the Takoma Park Independence Day Celebration with you all on July 4, 2021. To stay up to date on any decisions made about Independence Day 2021, please consider joining the committee or visit www.takomapark4th.com. Thank you for your support and please stay safe.
